U. S. Navy Boy Slays 9 Mates

SHANGHAI, April 23 (AP)—A 19-year-old seaman killed nine shipmates and wounded a tenth in a berserk blaze of gunfire aboard an LST in the Yangtze river today, th en stabbed himself. The Navy announced the sailor was L. B. Smith, seaman second class, of Asheville, N. C. The orgy of shooting and stabbings ended, the Navy said, when Smith was disarmed by an unnamed sailor, himself mortally wounded, and was floored by a metal bench wielded by Kenneth M. Stalnecker, 18, seaman second class of Reading, Pa.

Taken to the Navy hospital ship Repose in Shanghai harbor, Smith was given a 50-50 chance to survive three deep gashes in the upper abdomen inflicted with his own knife.

This was the way the tragedy was reconstructed by the Navy as it prepared to launch a court of inquiry:

Smith, described as a quiet, introspective youth who left the United States only Feb. 21, had stood a 10 p. m. to midnight watch as gangway messenger.

At midnight it was believed he went aft to the fantail, where he had frequently sat alone.

Later he obtained a carbine from the cabin of the gunnery officer, who was away on watch. He also had a pistol concealed among his own effects.

At about 3 a. m. he entered the sleeping compartment of the LST, where 30 shipmates were asleep. Switching on the lights and without a word, he opened fire. Seven seamen were killed outright and two others died later of their wounds.

Smith pumped 20 bullets into the close quarters from his carbine and pistol.

When his ammunition was exhausted, he leaped upon his victims with a knife.

Stalnecker, who escaped the bullets, and the mortally wounded sailor leaped from their bunks. Despite his wounds, the unnamed sailor reached Smith first. But before he could disarm Smith the young sailor plunged the knife into his own body. Stalnecker then knocked Smith down with the metal bench.

Smith and the three wounded were flown to the Repose in a Navy PBY after receiving emergency treatment on board the LST. Two of the wounded later died.

Names of the dead will be released when next of kin are notified.

The wounded sailor aboard the Repose was identified as George E. Simpson, 18, seaman second class, of Waterbury, Ct. He had a bullet wound in the left side of his chest.

Italy's Mme. Butterfly Dies for Love

By HAL BOYLE

ROME, April 23 (AP)—The liner Vulcania is speeding toward America today with hundreds of happy war brides. Pretty Julia isn't one of them, although she had hoped to be.

Julia was a real life "Madame Butterfly"—one of the thousands of girls who lost their hearts to foreign soldiers in wartime.

But this "Madame Butterfly" couldn't live on promises forever. She could wait only so long.

Two and a half years ago Julia first met her American captain in Caserta. She was only 19—she had never gone out with men before.

It is an old, old story but it was all new to Julia. She fell deeply in love with the young captain; he was married but she told friends he had assured her he would divorce his wife and marry her.

When the captain was transferred to Rome she followed him, and bore a child. She loved it dearly and for a time was happy. Then the baby sickened and died.

Six months ago the captain returned to the United States.

"I will be back for you in six months," he told her. "If I am not back in six months I will never come."

Throughout the winter Julia lived for his letters.

Only two came. In both the captain said his wife was seriously ill and he feared to ask her for a divorce. After that Julia's letters and cablegrams went unanswered.

She brooded. For hours she sat alone and stared at pictures of her captain. She wrote a brief note to her sister, Carla, and then rose and put on her prettiest red frock.

From a drawer she pulled a pistol, held it to her body and pulled the trigger. And with the bright agony of that first bullet flaming within her she squeezed the trigger a second time and died.

When Carla came in she found Julia lying near two pictures of the one she had loved most. The farewell note read, in part:

"Carla, excuse me if I do it in this manner. It is cowardly I know, but I do not wish, nor am I amble, to continue. Try to say as little as possible about my captain. I do not wish to harm him. He loves his wife.

"I love him a hundred times more than at first and I don't wish to live without him. It was six months yesterday since he left, and the waiting period has already passed. I don't wish to wait all my life.

"Mother and you who have done so much for me must forgive me this."

Mussolini Body Stolen in Milan

MILAN, April 23 (AP)—Milan municipal authorities reported today the body of Benito Mussolini was removed during the night from Maggiore cemetery here by "unknown" persons. An inquiry was under way.

The discovery was made by workers in the cemetery to exhume other bodies.

(A dispatch to Il Journal in Rome said part of Mussolini's leg encased in a boot remained in the coffin in the cemetery.)

Mussolini was buried in a pauper's grave in the cemetery soon after his execution by partisans near the Swiss border in April, 1945.

The bodies of Claretta Petacci, his mistress, and five henchmen, executed at the same time, were near his grave.

Mussolini was captured on the shores of Lake Como attempting to escape into Switzerland. After a summary trial, he and the others were shot.

The bodies were brought to Milan and hung up for exhibition in the public square. Thousands flocked to see the corpse of the man who had led Italy into war, and one woman fired several shots into his body, crying that each bullet represented her vengeance for her sons lost in the war.

Some Milan officials said they believed Fascists removed the body for veneration.

Morgue officials said Mussolini's body was stripped of clothing before it was buried. Police theorized persons with a knowledge of undertaking probably were involved "because it is difficult to remove a body from a coffin after one year without specialized knowledge."

Reds Renew Demand UN Drop Iran Case

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, today renewed his demand that the United Nations Security Council drop the Iranian case from its agenda immediately.

Speaking shortly after the Council re-convened from its long Easter holiday, Gromyko declared the world peace agency is not now "entitled to maintain the Iranian question on the Agenda." He emphasized Iran had withdrawn its complaint against Russia.

Gromyko said it was "regrettable the council's committee of experts had not been able to agree on the question of the legality of retaining the Iranian case on the agenda.

The representatives on the committee of experts, he said, "followed faithfully the instructions of their chiefs."

Gen. Clark Tells Reds Stop Shots

VIENNA, April 23 (INS)—Gen. Mark W. Clark, American commander in Austria, was understood today to have told the Russians incidents wherein Soviet gunners and airmen shoot in the direction of U. S. planes must cease immediately.

Authorative quarters said Clark, aroused by the second attack upon an American transport this month, sent a strongly-worded protest to this effect.

11 Million Orphans Starving in Europe

CAIRO, April 23 (INS)—The plight of 11,000,000 under-fed orphans was described today by Herbert Hoover's mission as Europe's "most poignant problem." The mission's report, just released, was compiled by Maurice Pate of Centerville, Mass., Hoover's child welfare adviser. It said the countries where children are suffering most are Poland, Austria, Yugoslavia and Germany. The report added:

"As a result of the war, mass killings, vast enforced migrations and famine, there are today no less than 11,000,000 orphans and half-orphans in Europe.

"In the present food deficit countries on the continent of Europe, there are approximately 40,000,000 children living in urban communities."

Stating that England has the most advanced, extensive and generous system of supplementary child feeding of any country in the world, the report continued:

"The coming generation in England will be the healthiest and strongest generation in the country's history."

Highest percentage of malnutrition and disease was found among Poland's children. Infant mortality averaged 20 per cent in Warsaw, where 60,000 children were living among the ruins.

K9 Great Dane Is Witness In Strange Quincy Sex Trial

A 190-pound Great Dane, former member of the wartime K9 corps, was paraded in Dedham superior court today as a silent and initial witness in the trial of Bruce Lord, 34-year-old Quincy beauty shop owner, who is charged with kidnaping and a series of sex offenses.

Marcus, which costs $18 a week to feed, was brought in by Deputy Sheriff Joseph T. Hunter for inspection by the jury. In the opening by the prosecution it was stated Marcus had been used to terrorize Lord's two alleged victims, Henry Moisan, 23, and ex-GI, of Arnold st., and John Thomas, 21, of Washington st., Quincy.

Defense Atty. John B. Mahar asked that the dog's heavy chain be loosened. Judge Walter L. Collins agreed but refused a request that a chain muzzle be slipped off also.

Moisan, the first witness, told the court he and Thomas were running for a street car in Quincy March 30 when the latter was felled by Marcus.

Lord, according to testimony, then appeared and told the youths they shouldn't be running. He took them and the dog to Weymouth Landing in a taxi to get liquor and then took them back to his beauty shop in Hancock st., Quincy, said Moisan.

"Lord gave the dog orders not to let us move," Moisan said. "I was scared to move. Lord then began stroking my hair and hugging. He did the same to Thomas.

"After a while he made me shave him and then he put lotions and other things on my hair. He said he would give us both nice updos. He called us both honey and sweetheart and he constantly gave the dog orders."

Moisan, who is a brunette, appeared in court with hair still red from his alleged beauty treatments. He testified Thomas finally was let out the following morning to go and get food. He said he did not escape until 4 p. m. the following day. The trial is continuing.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 23—Death came in gangland fashion with a grim setting outside a funeral home early today for John F. Letendre, 68, member of the Narragansett race track board of directors and for years a stormy and colorful figure in Rhode Island political and sporting circles.

He was shot and killed at the wheel of his beach wagon, only 300 yards from his palatial Prospect st. home in the city's exclusive North Side, less than a mile from his Blackstone Hotel, which he had left a few minutes earlier.

At least two of three bullets, pumped at him from close range, found their mark in his head after the assassins had maneuvered his car into position at Prospect and Spring sts.

Mortally wounded, Letendre tumbled from the beach wagon as, out of control, it jumped the curbing and started to roll up the embankment outside the funeral home, then slipped back and overturned some 20 feet from his body.

The killer, who apparently had stepped from his car to fire the fatal shots, was seen by neighbors running a few steps to a waiting black sedan, which sped away as soon as he had clambered inside.

Police Chief Edgar C. Turcotte, puzzled at the motive for the slaying, said that it could not have been robbery since the victim had more than $1000 in his possession. He customarily carried from $500 to $1500.

Turcotte said Letendre's manifold interests offered numerous theories for the crime but there was nothing tangible that investigators could place a finger on immediately. He declined further comment pending the autopsy report of Dr. Edward L. Meyers, medical examiner.

Dr. Meyers completed his post mortem at noon and left for Providence to confer with the state pathologist.

Inspectors talked at the race track this afternoon with Judge James E. Dooley, president of the racing association, who said he had seen Letendre late yesterday and at thet ime he seemed in good spirits.

State police have not been called into the case, but Capt. Ernest F. Stenhouse, executive

Later Dr. Meyers reported Letendre had dide of "very extensive brain hemorrhages as a result of two bullet wounds through the head."

Dooley Amazed

Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Narragansett Racing Ass'n, expressed amazement at the news of Letendre's death when informed by the Boston American.

He said he had seen and talked with Letendre only yesterday at the race track and at the time the Woonsocket man appeared in good spirits.

Judge Dooley said Letendre, while still a member of the track's board of directors, had no active part in its management and in recent years had turned over operation of much of his business, including operation of the Blackstone Hotel, to a son-in-law.

officer, said his department was heady to assist if needed.

Hotel registers were being checked because of the large influx of strangers into the area for the opening of the New England racing season.

A gambler since his youth, both in business and for his own recreation, Letendre was instrumental in pushing the pari-mutuel bill through the Rhode Island General Assembly and in interesting Walter E. O'Hara in the development of the Narragansett race track on the site of the old What Cheer airport.

Although he later broke with O'Hara, who by a strange parallel came to a violent end in February, 1941, in an auto accident near Taunton, Mass., Letendre retained his interest in Narragansett as a stockholder and director and was paid a salary as a contact man.

In addition to a crushed stone business he started before he was 21, Letendre extended his interests in late years to include hotel and night club properties in this area, Florida and Saratoga, N. Y.

He was a leader in the abortive effort to open the Gulfstream Park Race Track in Hollywood, Fla., in 1939, a track which now operates each winter.

In the political field, he served more than a quarter-century ago in the General Assembly and was a close associate of former Gov. Robert Livingstone Beeckman. Later he served as Woonsocket's police commissioner and twice was defeated for mayor, in 1934 and 1944.

Standing more than six feet and weighing well above 200 pounds, he was one of the state's best dressed men and known along most of the East coast as a man who would bet on anything, either for business or for recreation.

He once was reputed to have won $350,000 on one roll of the dice and often to have plunged several thousand dollars on one horse in a race although he often had no more luck than the average $2 bettor.

Blunt and outspoken, he was completely fearless and made many enemies in both the political and business world. At the same time he had a legion of friends.

He was a daily attendant at the races and was at Narragansett for Saturday's opening and again yesterday.

Last night he went to the hotel, which is being operated by his

Cambridge Boy, 11, Victim of Hit-Run, Crawls to Hospital

An 11-year-old boy crawled more than 400 yards to a hospital doorway after he was struck and critically injured by a hit-run autoist in Cambridge early today.

The youngster, John Graham, one of several children of Mrs. Viola Graham, a widow, of Norfolk st., Cambridge, was felled while crossing Cambridge and Line sts.

Knocked into the gutter, the boy had the presence of mind to memorize the first three numbers of the car's registration. Then he began his slow, painful crawl to the hospital, continuing along Cambridge st., until he came to the gateway of Cahill House, the maternity section of Cambridge City Hospital.

There were no witnesses to the accident and no one saw John make his tortured way along the deserted street until nurses discovered him creeping up the driveway.

Dr. Joseph Grady, who treated the injured boy, said he suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis, fractured ribs, and laceration of the kidneys.

Despite his pain, the plucky lad was able to give police the registration clue to the car.

Army Merger Bill Approved

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—Legislation calling for merger of the armed forces into a single department of defense was approved today by the Senate military committee.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D.) of Utah said the initial vote was 10 for reporting the bill, one against and one not voting. He said six other Senators not present would record their votes later.

Thomas said the bill reported "without change" is the one drafted by Thomas and Sens. Hill (D.) of Alabama and Austin (R.) of Vermont after months of public hearings last year. It carries all the recommendations made by President Truman.

Truman Leads U. S. Tribute to Justice Stone

WASHINGTON, April 23 (INS)—Solemn tribute to Chief Justice Harlan Stone, "last of the great dissenters," was voiced today from the Supreme Court bench on which he served for more than 20 years.

Seven black-robed justices bowed their heads and mourned their chief, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage in his Washington home last night after collapsing during a court session.

The court recessed immediately after the ranking member, Associate Justice Hugo L. Black, intoned in measured words his official announcement of the chief justice's passing.

Meanwhile, President Truman led the nation in its mourning of the 73-year-old giant of the bench. The President, notified at sea of Stone's death, said:

"I am terribly shocked. The death of Chief Justice Stone is a grievous loss to the country. He was a great jurist and a great American."

Mr. Truman may cut short his rest cruise on Chesapeake Bay and return to Washington for the funeral services in the national cathedral at 2 p. m. Thursday.

Justice Black, from his position beside the chief justice's black-draped vacant chair, said:

"Yesterday Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone pased away. "His kindliness and courtesy endeared him to all of his brethren on the court.

"His achievements as a lawyer won for him the respect and confidence of the American bar.

"His distinguished service to this court and to our country earned him a high place in the affection and admiration of all the people of the nation."

Justice Black said the high court would recess until next Monday at noon.

The Senate recessed at 12:27 p. m. in tribute to the chief justice. The House is not in session.

The first wave of speculation touched off by Stone's death centered on the possibility that Mr. Truman might designate a Republican to fill the court vacancy but elevate one of the seven Democrats now on the bench to Chief Justice.

Among the latter, Associate Justices William O. Douglas, Robert J. Jackson and Felix Frankfurter were mentioned most prominently and in that order. Other Democrats on the bench are Hugo Black, who now is first in seniority; Stanley F. Reed, Frank Murphy and Wiley Rutledge.

Talk of Republican candidates for the tribunal usually started off with the name of War Sec. Robert P. Patterson.

NUERNBERG, April 23 (AP)—The International Military Tribunal halted the Nuernberg war crimes trial briefly today to pay tribute to Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone of the United States.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, a colleague of Stone and chief U. S. prosecutor here, praised the chief justice as a "forward looking man of great fairness and kindness who was guide, philosopher and friend to many younger men who came to Washington."

Mrs. Connie Mack Bars Reconciliation

PHILADELPHIA, April 23 (AP)—Connie Mack and his 70-year-old wife, mother of five of his children, have separated in a squabble over disposition of stock in the Philadelphia Athletics Baseball Club.

Mrs. Cornelius McGillicuddy disclosed the separation and stated emphatically there was no chance for reconciliation.

Mack, in New York with the Athletics, insisted "Things will be straightened out in a short time. I have no comment to make. This is a personal matter and I hope people will regard it as private and keep out of it."

Mrs. McGillicuddy disclosed they separated in January after she learned her husband had transferred half the stock he owns in the ball club to his three sons, Earle, Roy and Connie, Jr.

"I learned in October about his transfer of the stock," she said. "I went to St. Petersburg, Fla., in December and asked him about it. He said it would be straightened out in two or three years.

"He is 83, and life is too uncertain to anticipate what may happen in the next two or three years."

Earle and Roy are Mack's children by his first marriage. He married his present wife in 1910—they had a son and four daughters. One daughter died, but is survived by a husband and son.

Unofficial estimates say the Athletics baseball franchise, including Shibe Park, are worth approximately $1,000,000. The Macks own controlling interest in the club with some of the shares still in the possession of heirs of Benjamin Shibe, the A's first president.

In the event of Mack's death, Pennsylvania law provides that the widow is entitled to one-third of the estate regardless of any provisions in the will. This includes not only real estate but stocks, bonds and money in the bank as well.

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—Tears glistened in the eyes of Connie Mack, venerable Athletics manager, when asked today if he wished to comment on his wife's announcement in Philadelphia that they had separated.

"I would just rather not talk about it at all," he said. "It would be so much better if people would just attend to their own business. I'm sorry, but I've had to hang up on several people who have telephoned me about it.

$30,000 Bible Question Has a $500 String to It

HURON, S. D., April 23 (AP)—From H. B. McEvan of Brunswick, Ga., has come the first answer to C. C. Richardson's posthumous quest for the best definition of a joke.

Richardson's will, now under contest, bequeathed his estimated $30,000 estate to the person giving the best answer to his question, "Why does and did the four-letter word 'joke' define and answer the all and total meaning of the Holy Bible and all the sociological meaning of man and the earth?"

Said McEvan:

"Since the total meaning of the Bible and all the sociological meaning of man and the earth sifts down to one thing—the destruction of the wicked or evil forces—I believe Mr. Richardson meant his word 'joke' as 'Jesus Only Kills Evil.'"

But if McEvan hoped to collect on his answer, the joke is on him. He forgot to post the $500 which the will stipulates must accompany each answer.

Buzz Warning Saves Town

GREENVALE, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Two Navy pilots flew low over the rooftops of this small Long Island community today in a successful effort to warn residents of their danger from a pilotless third plane, which crashed into a garage and burst into flames.

No one was injured in the crash. The pilot parachuted to safety 1500 feet above Greenvale when his Navy training plane caught fire.

Two other planes of the same type had taken off with him from Floyd Bennett Field.

Before the pilot jumped he headed his plane for an open field. But the ship veered back toward Greenvale and the two other fliers "buzzed" the community, calling people from their houses.

Many fled when they saw the derelict plane. It crashed in a street and hurtled into the garage. An oil tank from the plane bounced over a three-story house and smashed the window of another.

The garage was burned to the ground.

These Days

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE UNITED NATIONS was encouraged by our Government to make its home in the United States.

Geneva would have made better sense, but the Russians objected to Geneva because the League found Russia guilty of making war on Finland.

Therefore, the League could not be continued and everything connected with it, including the City of Geneva, its lake and the League palace became interdict.

So they decided on the United States and sent a commission headed by a Yugoslav, Stoyan Gavrilovich, here to find a temporary and a permanent site.

Gavrilovich acted, from the American standpoint, extraordinarily. He passed about the place like a conquering hero. He outlined a grandiose area of 40 square miles of the best suburbs in the country. He gave an interview to the press in which he offended some of our most honored citizens.

Americans in Connecticut and New York wondered when they would be summarily thrown out of their homes—some held by families for centuries.

Gavrilovich was so brusque and imperious that UN—then called UNO—left a bad taste.

THE WORST FEAR of all was extraterritoriality, a system which puts a state within a state; which provides an enclave outside the law, where every form of impropriety and lawlessness could flourish as it did in cities like Shanghai, Tientsin and Hankow. And neither the police of the State nor the FBI could do anything about it.

SINCE THEN, UN has been a homeless orphan in our country. It was put temporarily in Hunter College, where it should not have been put at all.

Now, it is being moved to the World Fair grounds in the Flushing meadows to the annoyance of ice-skaters.

Their offices are scattered, but are to be concentrated in the Sperry plant near Great Neck on Long Island when the red tape is cut, if ever.

The entire procedure is a disgusting example of inhospitality, following a display of small-country parvenuism.

If the United States did not want the United Nations, Ed Stettinius, who represented us in the matter, should have said so.

If we do want the United Nations to be situated here, then the State Dept. should have cleared up all the angles before they came here.

There has been too much fussing, too much running here and there.

It would have been simpler for us to have picked three specific and available places and to have offered them a choice on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

AFTER ALL, the League managed in Geneva; the United Nations can make history without all the flourishes that theatrically thrilled Mr. Gavrilovich and his architects.

If UN finds a road to peace, that organization will be able to have any space it wants here or anywhere.

Meanwhile, it needs an effieient, workable home. The monuments can follow when they are won.

As for extraterritoriality, I am told that all they really want is the courtesy given an embassy. If that is all, they ought to have it. That—and no more.

This can be certified to: Up at Hunter College in the Bronx, UN was guarded by the Marine Corps and by American citizens organized in a Security corps. Nothing untoward happened.

Most of the delegates used hired automobiles with proper license plates. Those who had no license plates—under extraterritorial privilege—ran over no one. In a word, reasonable people acted in a reasonable manner.

THIS SITUATION ought to be brought to a head, not because it matters whether UN stays here or not, but because the process thus far has been childishly unmannerly and stupid.

This is a hospitable country. When we invite a guest to our country, we treat him decently. We find him bed and board and reading spece, to say nothing of a telephone number.

When he forgets the obligations of a guest, we act up—but until then we make him at home. And that is what we need to do with UN, in a manner both reasonable and decent.

There is ample room in the United States for UN—so long as no American is being kicked around.

Branded Girl Testifies Of Hotel Horror Night

A night of horror in which, she testified, her alleged attacker drank two quarts of liquor while he used a cigaret to burn his initials on her breasts, thighs and hips, and a razor to slash her 15 times on the stomach and thighs, was described in municipal court today by 18-year-old Helen Stavrou, brunette stenographer at Westover Field.

Listening, and awaiting the time he would be allowed to tell his own story, was the man she accused, Lt. Thomas Farrell of Somerville, impressively decorated Army Air Forces veteran with 34 missions against the Japs to his credit. Farrell is stationed at Westover.

In addition to morals charges which include criminal attack, Farrel is under $10,000 bail for allegedly assaulting the girl with lighted cigarets in an effort to disfigure her permanently.

The courtroom was jammed with spectators avid to hear the girl's story but Judge Jennie Loitman Barron decided early it was no testimony for general absorption and ordered all except the principals, attorneys and others connected with the case to leave.

The airfield secretary's ordeal, as she related it on the stand with varying degrees of emotion, occurred March 16 and 17 in a Boston hotel.

"We came to Boston on the afternoon of March 16, a Saturday," she said, "and went to a cafe. He told me to register at the hotel. I tried, but couldn't. He told me to wait, then he went out. Several hours later a fellow came and said there was a room for me. I went there."

She testified that Farrell came to her room soon after 6 p. m.

"I asked him if we were going out," she said, "but instead he locked the door and told me to undress. I wouldn't. He took off my clothes. Then he asked if I had a razor. I said I hadn't but he went to my suitcase and found it.

"He began cutting my legs with it," she was continuing, when Policewoman Marie Fewore asked her, "Did you cry out?"

"No, he said he would kill me," Miss Stavrou replied.

Farrell's next act was to assault her criminally, she testified.

"Then," said the girl, "he used a lighted cigaret to burn a "I" on my right breast. He said he wanted me branded for life so I could never cheat on him."

Miss Stavrou continued that Farrell had subjected her to another assault. As the night wore on he used "two or three" packages of cigarets to complete branding her, with an "F" on her left breast, a "T" on her right thigh, an "F" on her left thigh, a "T" on her left hip and an "F" on her right hip.

At one juncture he called the bell captain and ordered medicinal preparations brought up, she testified. When the bell captain arrived, and while she was in the bathroom, she said, Farrell laughed and joked with the hotel employe.

Policewoman Fewore asked her: "You didn't ask the bell captain to help you?"

"No," said the girl, "I didn't think he would believe me—and I didn't want to show him my burns."

After the employe left, she managed to hide the razor but Farrell found it, the girl went on, and told her he would kill her if she made an outcry.

"He cut his own wrist with it," she related, "and asked what reason had we to live."

Once, Miss Stavrou testified, Farrell took her into the bathroom before a full length mirror to observe his handiwork with the burning cigarets.

"He seemed proud of it," she said, "but he told me he would have to 'perfect' the first initial he had burned on my breast. And he told me a razor would have done a better job because the initial would be more permanent."

The girl said it was 11 a. m. the next day, Sunday, before she managed to make her escape. Farrell had ordered her to get him a drink, she explained. She said she threw a sheet around him, ran out, locked the door and tottered down the corridor to the desk of the floor clerk, where she told of her plight.

Tells of Branding, Slashing
INP by Joseph Parodi

Under cross-questioning as to how she had been able to bear the pain of the branding she said:

"Certainly, I felt the pain but after the first one I was in a daze. That was the reason he had said the first initial was not perfect—I had wriggled with so much pain when he was doing it."

The case is continuing, with Miss Stavrou yet to be questioned by Farrell's counsel, Atty. Herbert F. Callahan.

GI Bride Seized Here Is Fined $1000 in Theft

Attractive Mrs. Carol Aiken Spitaleri, 21, arrested in a Boston hotel last February after she allegedly took $4500 from a Dublin Ga., bank to finance a trip here to meet her soldier husband, pleaded guilty to the charge today in Augusta, Ga., federal court, according to the Associated Press.

Judge Frank M. Scarlett imposed a fine of $1000 and placed the young woman on probation for two years on condition she make full restitution, the dispatch reported.

The young woman, who married former Sgt. Louis Spitaleri of Pawtucket, R. I., last New Year's Day, had $3800 when arrested in a Boston hotel as she waited for her husband to go through the discharge procedure at Ft. Devens.

Arraigned before U. S. Comr. Martin T. Hall she waived extradition and was released in $2500 bail. Her husband accompanied her back to Georgia.

Court Hint Starts Chelsea Bribe Quiz

A defendant's mumbling remark in Chelsea district court today launched a city-wide gambling investigation whereby Mayor Bernard L. Sullivan said he proposed to find out if number pool operators paid for protection in his bailiwick.

The mumbler was Nathan Nakash, 36, of Addison st., Chelsea, found guilty of promoting and setting up a lottery, and possessing lottery tickets. Judge John W. McLeod continued the case two weeks.

Nakash, represented by City Solicitor John Francis Donovan, said something low and indistinctly.

"Repeat that, please," ordered Judge McLeod.

Nakash said: "It seems as if you pay, then . . . afterward . . ."

His attorney demanded: "What do you mean, pay? Pay whom?"

The judge also wanted an elaboration.

"Once a month," said Nakash, "you have to pay off to stay in business."

City Solicitor Donovan asked if he meant "city officials." Nakash said, "No."

Judge McLeod inquired, "Could you say whom?"

"I could but I wouldn't," said the defendant.

Police Capt. Cornelius Duggan wanted to know if Nakash meant the police.

"I wouldn't say," was the answer. Duggan drew from him the statement that he hadn't meant Duggan.

Judge McLeod held Nakash in $500 and said he wanted to look into the case further.

Mayor Sullivan, to whom word was taken of the proceedings, declared he would have the police get busy at once to check the monthly protection payoff charge.

Mystery Blast Rocks Malden

One man was slightly injured today when a mystery explosion at the garage of the Exchange Transportation Co., Exchange st., rocked the business district of Malden.

Francis Smith, 26, of Russell st., Everett, an employe, was taken to Malden Hospital but doctors said his condition was not serious. He suffered burns and shock.

Acting Fire Chief Lorin A. Keddie said he could not immediately determine the cause and ordered an investigation. Keddie said that Smith had been clearing an area around the garage when the blast occurred.

Shattered by the explosion was and empty 275-gallon gasiline drum said to have been empty for more than a year.

Back Bay Resident Points Out Ignored Fire Hazards

An irrate Back Bay resident today showed graphically why Boston has so many disastrous fires.

The complainant took a Boston American photographer on a tour of Back Bay alleys and streets, pointing out potential hazards and centered his wrath on one building in St. Germaine st., only a short distance from the Belvidere st. block where eight persons died two weeks ago.

"I warned the Fire Prevention Bureau about conditions here many weeks ago," he said. "I complained especially about this pile of old lumber stacked against the rear of the building.

"I've waited and waited, but the hazard hasn't been removed. Officials make a big fuss when lives are lost, but in a few days they settle right back and do nothing."

Restaurateur Fined $5000

Edward Linsey, 38, of York ter., Brookline, was fined $5000 by Judge George C. Sweeney in Federal court today after he pleaded guilty of violation of the 2d War Powers Act.

According to Asst. U. S. Atty. John W. King, Linsey is assistant treasurer of Piccadilly Restaurant, located in the University Club, Trinity pl., Boston.

"This defendant spent several thousand dollars more than he was authorized to do in making alterations at the University Club," said King.

Information showed that $35,954.42 was spent in alterations whereas only $[illegible]0 was authorized by the War Production Board.

Runaway, 15, Now Marine In Japan

It is not strange that Mr. and Mrs. John Sansone of Gibson st., Dorchester, spent the morning crying and laughing for joy.

A year and a half ago, their son, Pasquale, then 15, disappeared from home and had not been heard of. Police, secret service and other agencies could find no trace of him.

And today came a little V-mail letter from Japan:

"This is your son, Pasquale," it said in a matter-of-fact way.

"Mama, well Mama, this is the first letter I've written in a long time. Mama, don't say much. I might be home in two or three months," he wrote.

Then he explained that he went to City Hall on the day after his 15th birthday and got the birth certificate of his older brother, Nicholas. Using this, he got into the Marines, trained at Parris Island, S. C., and went to Japan with the Second Division.

A chaplain discovered what he had done and prevaialed on him to write his parents.

"Well," remarked his dad, "perhaps he's the kind of a boy this country really needs."

Parolee in Holdup Gets Pardon Hearing

At request of Gov. Tobin, the advisory board of pardons will hold a hearing May 6 on the pardon petition of John R. Allen of South Boston, sentenced to life imprisonment in 1925 for a $23,000 payroll holdup at Lever Brother's plant in Cambridge.

Allen had his term commuted in 1931 and two years later was released on parole. He now asks a full pardon, declaring he is innocent.

Kennedy Son Enters Race for Curley Seat

John F. Kennedy, naval hero, holder of the Purple Heart and son of former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, has thrown his hat into the political ring today, specifically in the 11th Congressional District, sparking the race for the seat Mayor Curley will relinquish at the end of 1946.

The slim young war veteran is a resident of the West End. The district which he asks a chance to serve in Congress includes Cambridge, East Boston, Charlestown, Ward 3, which comprises the West, South and North Ends; Ward 22 in Brighton, and that portion of Somerville comprising Wards 1, 2 and 3.

Kennedy's nomination papers were due to be filed by today's 5 p. m. deadline. Meanwhile with this being the deadline date, 13 Democrats, three Republicans and one Communist, Otis A. Hood, had filed by early afternoon.

The Democrats included Curley's Washington secretary, John F. Cotter of Charlestown; City Councilor Joseph Russo of the West End; another Joseph Russo of Chambers st., West End; Robert B. DuFruscio of Eaton st., West End; Rep. Enrico Cappucci of East Boston; City Councilor James S. Coffey of East Boston; John J. Cheever of Bowdoin st., West End; Leonard A. Capadilupo, Endicott st., North End; John A. Dolan of Pearl st., Charlestown; Michael DeLuca of North st., North End; Philip J. Diehl, Shawmut ave., South End; John F. Rinaldi, Osborne pl., South End, and Adam Palaza, East Boston.

Republican candidates who filed were Edward J. Goodman, Jr., of Westbourne ter., Brookline; Lester W. Bowen of Foskett st., Somerville and Clayton F. White of Auburn st., Cambridge.

Kennedy was decorated for valor beyond the call of duty as the result of heroism displayed in caring for his men when the PT boat he commanded was sliced in two by a Jap destroyer in the Solomons.

Announcing his candidacy, John Kennedy said:

"Each passing day brings to light the increased need for prompt and intelligent action in public service. Veterans are daily faced with new problems of employment, housing and rehabilitation. The general public's needs are greater now than perhaps at any time in our history. The demands of peace are more far reaching and more complex than the problems of the recent war."

Kennedy has taken an active interest in veterans' affairs. He is president of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Post, VFW; general chairman of the VFW convention which will be held here in September, and a member of the Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion. He also holds membership in the Charlestown Council, Knights of Columbus.

"The temper of the times," he said, "imposes an obligation upon every thinking citizen to work diligently in peace, as we served tirelessly in war.

"Everyone who is able should do his utmost in these days of world and national progress to contribute his talents in keeping with his abilities and resources. It is with this feeling that I announce my candidacy for Congress."

In entering politics, Kennedy is following in the footsteps of his grandfathers, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and the late Patrick J. Kennedy. John F., after whom Kennedy is named and with whom he lives, entered the arena from the North End, winning a congressional seat in approximately the same population area where his grandson now makes a bid.

Patrick J. Kennedy, one of the city's most popular leaders shortly after the turn of the century, lived in East Boston and won election to both houses of the General Court.

The younger Kennedy is author of a best-seller, "While England Slept." As a newspaperman he covered the Potsdam and San Francisco conferences, significant events in Italy and Ireland and the election wherein England displaced the Churchill government with a Socialist regime.

Conservation Work Curbed Cape Fires

Conservation work on Cape Cod aided fire fighters inestimably during the five-day battle in blazing woodlands of that area, it was disclosed today by Archibald K. Sloper, state commissioner of conservation.

More than $10,000 of $100,000 appropriated by the last Legislature had been spent in clearing 300 miles of woods roads, cluttered by the last hurricane and subsequent forest fires. It was over this vast inner network that apparatus was drawn to block the roaring flames.

"This expenditure more than proved its worth," Sloper said. "Many of the cleared roads proved fire blocks in themselves, as well as vast tracks that had been cleared of inflammable debris. A total of 81,000 such acres had been cleared before the recent fires broke out."

Sloper also cited how the danger of unexploded shells fired from Camp Edwards during wartime target practice had hampered work of the fire fighters. Volunteers were kept out of large areas. Back fires were set in those regions and Sloper was among those who heard the boom of exploding "duds" as the backfires licked the area.

Meanwhile, 200 police and State Guards were on the job to prevent rekindling in the tinder dry forests. The danger will not be over until the Cape has had a soaking rain.

At the same time, Gov. Tobin rescinded his order banning fishermen and the public from woods of the state except in Plymouth, Bristol, Dukes and Barnstable counties.

The East Sandwich Grange Hall, fire-fighting headquarters, was surrounded by 30 fire trucks from more than a score of towns, all held in readiness for any new alarm.

Convinced the fire and 10 previous blazes in the upper Cape area were set, following finding of crude fuses made of cigaret butts and matches State Police continued questioning residents in an effort to track down those responsible.

Tobin Plan Gets 1-Min. Hearing

In less than a minute, the legislative committee on highways conducted a public hearing on Gov. Tobin's proposal for construction of a second under-harbor tube and a central traffic artery through Boston.

The hearing was closed shortly after it opened when none appeared either in favor or against the measure.

Under Tobin's proposal, jurisdiction for the work would be transferred from the Massachusetts Public Works Department to to the Metropolitan District Commission.

The second tube would parallel the traffic tunnel now running between Boston and East Boston and would cost an estimated $15,000,000.

His recommendation for a single artery which would run in a north-south direction through Boston would cost $50,000,000.

Bill Would Aid Boston Firemen

Stating all Boston firemen were liable to injury because of obsolete facilities, Rep. Thomas F. Reilly, of Boston, filed a bill today which would permit the city to borrow $1,000,000 outside the debt limit "to replace dangerous fire-fighting equipment."

Reilly said Fire Comr. Russell Codman informed him he would appear before the legislative rules committee when it considered the measure.

Lifting Iron Curtain Seen Byrnes' Aim

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—A well informed diplomatic source predicted today that Sec. Byrnes would press for an early treaty with Austria at the meeting of four foreign ministers as part of an American campaign to pierce the Soviet "iron curtain" across Eastern Europe.

This American informant said the Austrian question would be put on the agenda of the conference of foreign ministers of the United States, Russia, France and Great Britain at specific American request. The meeting is to begin Thursday.

Discussion of an Austrian treaty has been set tentatively for the period after debate on French demands for internationalization of the Ruhr, it was said.

Diplomatic observers said the United States decision to recognize Yugoslavia was the first move in an "American diplomatic invasion" of eastern Europe.

A member of the American delegation said the treaty with Austria could not be called a peace treaty because Austria disappeared as a nation following its absorption by Germany in 1938. Thus, he said, Austria was not at war as a nation.

The proposed treaty would recognize Austria as an independent nation, permit withdrawal of the four armies of occupation and enable the Austrians to regularize their international relations.

Byrnes Flies to Paris For Big Four Parley

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—Sec. Byrnes left by plane today for the Paris meeting of foreign ministers which will try to break the deadlock over European peace treaties.

He took off at 12:05 p. m. in President Truman's plane The Sacred Cow and is due in Paris tomorrow. He is known to be seriously concerned over the possibility that the talks among Foreign Ministers Molotov, Bevin and Bidault and himself may fail to crack the stalemate on peace settlements.

2 Support Alibi In Assault Case

The case of Bartley J. McDonough, 50, of Dorset st., Dorchester, charged with attempted criminal attack on Miss Helen Curlanis, 20, of Dorchester ave., South Boston, went to the jury in Suffolk Superior Court today after testimony of two alibi witnesses, and defense arguments the charge was inspired by jealousy.

McDonough's counsel, Edward McMahon, argued the charge was brought by the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Curlanis, to halt McDonough's plans to marry Mrs. Edna Walcowicz.

Helen, a blonde, had testified that her mother, a divorcee and beauty parlor operator, had sent her to McDonough's home last Nov. 20 for some wave curlers he had repaired. She said he tore her clothes, threw her on a couch and threatened to kill her if she disclosed what happened. The girl placed the time of the alleged attack at about 6 p. m.

John Saniuk testified McDonough came to his Dorchester st., South Boston, meat store shortly after 6 o'clock that day and a taxi driver corroborated this testimony, asserting he picked up McDonough at the store about 6:30.

Atty McMahon said Mrs. Curlanis had divorced her husband to Marry McDonough.

Taft Hits OPA Aid as Too Little

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—OPA came to the relief today of a knitting mill whose president testified last week to heavy losses—but Sen. Taft, (R.) of Ohio, said the boost was not enough.

Last Thursday President F. R. Devereux of the Oneita Knitting Mills of Utica, N. Y., told the Senate Banking Committee his firm lost $200,000 in the last six months. The committee asked OPA officials to look into it.

Jerome S. Lieberman of OPA, offering a 3.3 per cent increase in the mill's current ceilings, today said this amounted to about a 3.6 per cent return on the firm's net worth before taxes. Taft argued the firm's return after taxes were paid would amount to only 2 per cent "and that is utterly unreasonable," and said manufacturers would be smarter if they just quit and put their money into government bonds.

Held for Locking Boy, 4, in Stove

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Verna Decatur, 22, pleaded innocent in city court today to a charge that she endangered the life of a 4-year-old boy when she allegedly locked him in an unheated kitchen stove while she went shopping.

Police said the boy, Earl M. Wilbur, was released by neighbors after five minutes and did not require medical attention.

Miss Decatur, who police said kept house for the boy's father, was committed to Broome County Jail pending trial May 7.

Navy Explains Rescue Delay In Drownings

Failure of Navy craft to reach two Dorchester boys before they drowned in Dorchester bay off the Squantum Naval Air Station last Thursday was due "to lack of timely directions," the Navy informed Sen. Walsh today.

The Navy's explanation to the chairman of the Senate Naval Committee came as Quincy police, using the department's new motor launch, resumed dragging for the bodies of George Donahue, 15, of Sanford st., and David McHugh, 14, of Temple st. A third Dorchester boy, Jeremiah Hurley, 14, also of Sanford st., was rescued.

Sen. Walsh asked the Navy to investigate the accident after witnesses complained they had called the Squantum base for aid for the overturned canoeists, but help arrived too late.

The Navy said that the first call to the Squantum station was from an unidentified woman who failed to say where it happened. About 15 minutes later a second caller gave the location and a boat was dispatched.

Sleep Sickness Is Okinawa Peril

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—A form of sleeping sickness is menacing American occupation troops on Okinawa, but a vaccine designed to combat it is under study.

Comdr. T. M. Rivers of the Navy Medical Corps told the National Academy of Sciences that Navy doctors got first-hand information on the disease—called Japanese B-encephalitis—during an epidemic among natives last summer. He added:

"The disease is extraordinarily disagreeable and can be highly fatal. It is a menace to our occupation troops because it occurs each summer on Okinawa."

Confesses He Beat Mother to Death

Senate Group Favors Public Debt Limit Cut

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The Senate finance committee voted unanimously today to cut the public debt limit from $300,000,000,000 to $275,000,000,000.

Sen. Byrd (D.) of Virginia said such action would put Treasury borrowings on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Lionel Atwill Dies From Pneumonia

HOLLYWOOD, April 23 (AP)—English-born Lionel Atwill, one of Hollywood's foremost character actors, died unexpectedly at his Pacific Palisades home when a relapse cut short his supposed convalescence from a siege of pneumonia. He was 61.

Mrs. Moran Post Ruled Illegal In Somerville

Somerville City Solicitor Anthony W. DiCecca ruled today the election of Mrs. Walter J. Moran by the Board of Aldermen on March 29 was illegal and she is not entitled to fill the Ward 1 vacancy created by her husband's resignation.

The city solicitor's decision, based on an act of the General Court, automatically opens the way for a special election to fill the seat to which Moran was elected last November.

Mrs. Moran has attended one meeting of the board. Moran resigned only a few hours after a House bill preventing the aldermanic body from naming a successor, had been enacted into law.

What Can YOU DO To Get More Soap?

YOU CAN DREAM about the oceans of the soap and soap powders you need so badly... and let the fats that help make them dribble down the drain. Some day, sure, you'll get more soap. But when?

Not until the country's industrial fat supply has been built up tremendously. Right now, it is at a record low.

Suppose, though, you want soaps to come back to the counter sooner ...what can you do?

YOU CAN SAVE your used fats ... just as carefully as during the war. There's more meat now ... more fat to save...so it's lots easier.

You American housewives are already turning in a healthy share of our present industrial fat supply. If you slacken up, naturally there'll be less fats. And less fats mean less soaps, less of all peacetime products.

So keep saving. You get 4¢ for every pound... and every pound makes about two pounds of the soaps you need!

Where there's fat- there's soap

"Was I WRONG, back in 1946!"

1. "I've been working in this plant nearly ten years, now. Got my first big chance back in World War II. There was a paper shortage then, and I worked long hours. But I felt rich with the extra pay I made.

2. "I figured I'd be smart if I saved some extra money. So every payday, I put something into War Bonds—I salted away a tidy sum in the bank. I bought more life insurance. That was my big chance to get ahead.

3. "I raised a lot of our own food and saving really got to be a habit. And while there were lots of things I wanted to buy, then, many of them were scarce; or they cost more than they were worth.

4. "Then the war ended and new products started coming out. At first, we bought just what we had to have because things were still pretty scarce. Then we went overboard. Little by little our savings melted.

5. "That was our biggest mistake. If we'd only gone slow and easy, we could have got what we wanted when things were plentiful . . . and we'd still have a good nest egg, today. Was I WRONG, back in 1946!"

Life Insurance Companies in America

and their agents

. . . to cooperate with our Government in preserving the financial health of the nation

BUT IT IS STILL 1946. If we use our savings wisely now, we can help to avoid inflationary price increases . . . and at the same time maintain backlogs for the kind of future we all desire. If we spend our money carelessly now, we may look back some day with regret.

During the war, millions of Americans saved to protect their families, to educate their children, to start a business of their own, to own their own home, to retire. Today they are still following the advice of our Government, buying only what they really need until civilian goods are plentiful; buying and holding on to their Government Bonds and life insurance, and maintaining their savings accounts. Are you one of them?

America's life insurance companies are sponsoring this program of information as a public service to the 71,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American citizen.

Locomotive Test Run in Readville Wreck Probe

With the blame still to be decided, railroad and state officials tonight will run a New Haven locomotive over the Readville route where the crash of two trains cost the lives of an engineer and fireman and injured 300 passengers.

This announcement was made by William P. Kirley, director of the railroad division of the State Public Utilities Department.

"We are leaving no stone unturned to determine the cause of the wreck," Kirley said. "We are taking out a locomotive and operating it under similar conditions to see if we can throw any light on what happened."

Kirley said equipment on both locomotives and the signal system all were apparently operating perfectly. He declined to comment on the statement of Raymond S. Bernard of Warwick, R. I., surviving engineer of the two-train collision.

"The signal referred to be officials was set against me," Bernard said in an interview, "but there were other factors connected with it that alter the whole situation. I am certain that I was not at fault."

Kirley replied: "I don't know what the engineer can mean by that. No engineer is permitted to go by even one signal that is set against him."

Shortage in Men's Suits Under Study

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The men's suit shortage moved up for top attention today as the government counted hopefully on new emergency measures to help ease another clothing scarcity—in low-cost cotton apparel.

The Civilian Production Administration began analyzing reports from 80 manufacturers on why output of inexpensive suits fell nearly a million garments shy of the 3,500,000 goal set for the first three months of this year. From this spot check the agency expects to learn in the next few days just what steps must be taken to bring production up to schedule.

The survey is being made at the insistence of Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, chief of the Retraining and Re-employment Administration. Recently Erskine contended that many veterans have had to turn down jobs for lack of proper clothing.

On the cotton clothing front, the government turned last night to a combination of price increases and restoration of wartime production controls to obtain more yarn and fabric for shirts, underwear, pajamas, dresses and work clothing.

MANILA, April 23 (AP)—A rumor that he might be kidnaped sent Presidential Candidate Manuel Roxas scurrying into hiding today as nearly 3,000,000 Filipinos quietly elected leaders to guide them in the first years of their independence.

Head of Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School.

Q—Is it necessary to spade commercial fertilizer in?

A—No. Commercial fertilizer can be applied either in bands on either side of the seed drill or applied broadcast before the final raking. The soil type may affect the result you get from the application of fertilizer.

Q—How long should manure be left on the lawn?

A—Animal manures should not be left on after the grass starts to grow. Coarse manure should have been taken off 3 weeks ago. Rake off at once if you have not already done so.

Q—Will sulphur dust control rust on hollyhocks?

A—To control hollyhock rust, I suggest you clean up all old leaves and stems from last year. Then dust the new green leaves with sulphur. Dust once every 2 or 3 weeks. Weather conditions and locations and location of plants has much to do with control of this disease.

Q—Are glass substitutes as good as regular glass for hot bed sash?

A—In most cases glass substitutes cause plants to stretch or become leggy. Later in the season, when sash are only used at night, they can be used.

Q—Several weeks ago I planted a few rows of early corn. It has not germinated. Has the seed rotted?

A—The chances are that the seed has decayed in the soil. Corn is a warm weather crop and you cannot get good results by too early planting. Replant May 10 and charge the first try to experience.

Q—When should kale be grown, in spring or fall?

A—As kale in a cool weather plant, it gives best results as a fall crop. This crop is at its best after we have had several frosts.

Q—I was told by a gardener to spread salt around the roots of fruit trees. Is this a good practice?

A—As far as is known, salt does not do any good and in large amounts may do much harm. Better to use nitrogen or complete fertilizer as a source of plant food.

Murder

son-in-law, James P. Morle, who was on a week-end trip to New York.

At the closing hour, he complained to Bob Martell, the bartender, that his stomach was upset and drank a sedative.

Apparently he followed his customary route home, since the shooting occurred shortly after 1 a. m. at Prospect and Spring sts., at the approximate time he would have reached that intersection.

Police first theorized the assassins ha ddriven their sedan alongside Letendre's beach wagon and blasted him as he drove toward his home.

After further reconstruction of the case, however, they believe now the killers either blocked his passage at the intersection with the sedan or forced his beach wagon into position where the killers could leap on the running board and fire point blank at his victim.

James E. Tempest, Jr., 25, a recently discharged Marine, the nearest approach police have to an eyewitness, told of hearing three shots outside and rushing to a window of his Prospect st. home.

He said he saw Letenare's body tumbling from the beach wagon as it rolled up over the curbing toward the embankment and an unidentified man running toward a waiting black sedan.

As he watched, he said, the men joined one or more in the waiting sedan and the car sped away as the beach wagon slipped back down the embankment and overturned.

Tempest's father, recently returned from the Aleutians where he was an Army civilian worker, said his son called his attention to the shooting and they rushed outside with another son, Raymond, 21, a Navy veteran.

"We found a man lying facedown in the street and we recognized him right away as Letendre," Tempest, Sr., said. "He was bleeding and his hat, with bullet holes, was lying near the overturned car. Jimmy and Raymond helped police put him in the ambulance."

Mrs. Tempest telephoned the Letendre home and another son-in-law, Joseph B. McKenna, hurried to the scene. He said Letendre had been in good spirits and planning a June vacation

At least two bullet wounds were visible in Letendre's head when the first witnesses reached the scene.

The slug, which apparently passed through the open window of the beach wagon, had whizzed up, striking a window sill of the undertaking parlor. The spent bullet was found there. It was apparently of .38 caliber.

The other shot was higher, penetrating the head near the temple.

The beach wagon was impounded by police and checkup was being made for fingerprints.

Letendre, christened Jean Labadie, adopted the name of John Letendre when he entered politics.

Unconsciously he had predicted his own violent end in his political campaign when he sought unsuccessfully to defeat Mayor Ernest E. Dupre in the last election.

Inveighing against the "Dupre machine" and the conditions existing in Woonsocket, he declared:

"Things are so bad that I expect to pick up the paper any morning and find that someone has been killed."

Typical of Letendre in that campaign was his offer to Dupre to "slug it out" with the better man taking the job.

During the campaign he charged that he had been threatened by gangsters and in a rally at his hotel waved a letter purporting to be from "The Mob" demanding that he get out of politics.

"Jack never backed down yet!" he shouted on that occasion. "They want me to stop my campaign and stop opposing the machine. I'll show the dirty rats!"

After his defeat he dropped out of active politics although he retained a strong influence in his party councils.

A year ago he underwent a delicate brain operation in Boston but was back three months later, active in his many and varied interests.

He returned here only two weeks ago from Florida, where he was reported to have won considerable money betting on horse races.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Eleanor Letendre, and three daughters, Mrs. James R. Morley, Mrs. Joseph B. McKenna and Miss Dolores Letendre, all of Woonsocket.

Hub Greets 5 East Oratory Finalists

By BERT FORD

Boston held out the hand of welcome today to five champion student orators, winners in the local contests in three cities, arriving here for the eastern zone finals in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest, to be held tomorrow night in Boston Latin School auditorium.

The subject of the contest: "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States," has inspired thousands of young students throughout the country to enter their local competitions, and these five visitors are the cream of the crop in their respective eastern cities.

First to arrive today were the Baltimore winners: William J. Heil, 17, a senior at Loyola High School, and Louis Milio, 19, a law student at the University of Baltimore.

The Albany winner, sole girl student to make the grade of the eastern zone finals, was to arrive by plane at the Logan Airport at noon. She is Ann Horan, 18, a senior at Cathedral Academy in Albany.

At 4 p. m. the New York winners will reach here by train. They are Anthony J. Bivona, 17, a senior at La Salle Academy, who upon graduation will seek an appointment to West Point, and John J. Saal, 21, of Brooklyn, a law student at St. John's University.

The Boston winners, who will be hosts to the visiting orators, are Roland Weyand, 17, of Waban rd., Quincy, representing Boston College High School, and William A. Burke, 26, a World War II veteran of Mohan st., Everett, a student under the G. I. Bill of Rights at Staley College of the Spoken Word.

Upon arrival the guest students will be taken to the Copley-Plaza Hotel, their headquarters during the visit. They will share, too, in an instructive and diverting program of entertainment which has been prepared for them.

This will include tomorrow a sight-seeing tour of the places of historic interest in Boston and later a trip to the famed battlegrounds of Concord and Lexington. There will be a luncheon at Wayside Inn in Sudbury, the ancient inn which Henry Ford has preserved as a shrine for quaint and historic antiques and other objects dating from pre-Revolutionary days.

During the contest tomorrow there will be entertainment featuring stars of national renown. These include Georgie Price, song stylist and comedian, now at the Hotel Bradford roof; Frances Faye, blues singer and dynamic swing pianist, of Club Mayfair; Pat Rooney, Jr., of the famous dancing Rooney family, now starred at the Gay Nineties; Marion Mulhall, Jimmy O'Keefe's talented songbird of the Music Box, and the spectacular dance team of Mack and Desmond, of the Latin Quarter.

The popular maestro and band leader, Ranny Weeks, will be master of ceremonies, and music will be furnished by Ruby Newman's band, with musical arrangements by Sammy Eisen. There will also be selections from the Girls' High School Glee Club of 80 voices. Winners of the eastern zone finals will be eligible for the national finals, to be held in Boston Latin School on May 2, and for prizes which include a $1000 Victory Bond and a memorable trip from Boston to New Orleans.

Democrat Chief Bolts to GOP

MILWAUKEE, April 23 (AP)—Chester J. Michalak resigned today as president of the Young Democrats of Wisconsin and announced he was joining the Republican party.

He declared that the Democratic party had deported from its role as a party of the people and now stood for goernment control of the people.

Michalak charged the Democratic party had failed Poland, Iran and other small nations and that the Young Democrats group was burdened with members who supported Russia instead of America.

Adm. Fraser to Step Down in British Fleet

SHANGHAI, April 23 (AP)—Adm. Sir Bruce Fraser told a press conference today he soon would be relieved as commander-in-chief of the British Pacific fleet in line with a reduction of naval strength to prewar standards.

Fraser said his fleet, now at peak strength, soon would be cut one-third, leaving four cruisers, eight destroyers, two light aircraft carriers, 12 elscorts and some submarines. Britain will retain Hongkong as a fleet operating base, he said.

$20 Monthly Not Enough for Vets

Back Hurt—Joseph Filipowicz of Lynn injured his spine during Navy service. Now he's being treated at the Veterans' Hospital, West Roxbury . . . and his monthly allowance from Uncle Sam amounts to only $20. "What I mind is not being able to help the folks while I'm here," says Joe.

Donald Matthews says, "I guess I'm not worth much while I'm in the hospital." And judging from the $11.50 — not the $20 monthly okayed by Congress for hospitalized single men—he gets every month, Uncle Sam thinks the same. From Dorchester, he served with the Eighth Air Force.

Edward Funaiole, Townsend Army veteran, likes to call his friends from the West Roxbury hospital, but $20 a month doesn't go far when you consider a hospitalized man also has to buy smokes, toilet articles, canteen snacks and needed incidentals.

LET'S NOT RISK EPIDEMICS

WHILE THE incipient smallpox epidemics in San Francisco and Seattle were quickly brought under control with a limited number of infections and only a few fatalities, Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health director of San Francisco, warningly observes that the American community "IS NOT ALWAYS OR FULLY PREPARED TO COMBAT SUCH POTENTIAL OUTBREAKS."

The real measure of the menace, Dr. Geiger says, is found in the extreme economy of time in ocean travel made possible by air transport.

When all ocean travel was by ship, he points out, a passenger previously exposed to disease was reasonably sure of development of symptoms sufficient for diagnosis before completion of his journey, and isolation was a simple matter.

But with the world-wide air transport now available, and with no city in the United States more than 48 hours away from any point on earth, the unsuspected and unsuspecting disease-carrier can reach his destination in any part of the country and dangerously expose hundreds of people before there is any possibility of medical diagnosis or isolation.

"This is no Jules Verne version for the future," Dr. Geiger emphasizes.

"The danger is here now, and exists as the result of modern air travel.

"Our international health protection must be modernized to meet present day needs and it should be done at once."

THE ALARMING experience in San Francisco and Seattle, while successfully dealt with, may be repeated "tomorrow or next week or next month."

Moreover, it might occur in BOSTON OR ANY COMMUNITY IN THE UNITED STATES.

AND IT MIGHT INVOLVE MANY CONTAGIONS WORSE THAN SMALLPOX—MANY OF THEM RECOGNIZABLE ONLY BY SPECIALISTS IN THE FIELD OF RARE ORIENTAL OR TROPICAL DISEASES.

Obviously this is not a LOCAL problem, of concern to only the coastal areas of the United States which are the first points of contact by air travelers.

Dr. Geiger, in fact, says it would be a mistake to regard it even as an exclusively NATIONAL problem.

He advocates an INTERNATIONAL health organization for the detection and control of contagious disease at the point of origin, with all governments and all air lines participating and held responsible.

IN SHORT, HE URGES, THE MINIMUM PROTECTIVE MEASURE TO SAFEGUARD PUBLIC HEALTH "MUST BE SOMETHING TO MATCH, MEDICALLY, THE TREMENDOUS MODERNIZATION OF AIR TRAVEL."

A HEALTH STATION network around the world, "with a world-wide espionage system to track down potential epidemics at their source," is the essential device he envisions.

FIRE GUARDS

TO PREVENT a repetition of the disastrous Cape Cod fire, we must patrol our New England forests constantly and adequately.

We need greatly enlarged State Guard organizations.

We need more volunteers in all cities and towns.

We need the realistic attitude of the war period when thousands offered their services as air raid wardens.

We need many of the airplanes, jeeps and trucks which have been abandoned or given away by the War and Navy Departments.

Our forests are among our most valuable assets, and we cannot afford to jeopardize them by carelessness or neglect.

The six New England Governors should meet this week and adopt a joint program to save the woodlands that remain.

—MARTIN McDERMOTT.

THIS IS an excerpt from a supplication of several verses. The object of this outburst of affection was evidently a blue-eyed throaty-voiced blonde with a neck like a swan . . . The distillers of "made in America" Scotch whisky object to being compelled by law to label it "Scotch-type" whisky. They claim that even though their whisky is not made in Scotland it is, nevertheless, "Scotch whisky." In this connection, permit me again to report on an incident in Glasgow, Scotland, before the war. A Japanese distiller had been making whisky similar to the Scotch variety in Japan and selling it in Glasgow labelled as "Scotch." The Scotch distillers had the Japanese haled into court. They said his product wasn't Scotch whisky as it had been made in Japan. The judge refused to decide against the Jap distiller, saying in part: "To claim that Scotch whisky can only be made in Scotland is like saying Irish stew can only be made in Ireland."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS. Q. How much has the President of the United States left from his $75,000 salary after he pays his income tax? A. About $37,500. Before 1933, the President's salary was tax free . . . Q. Name the boxing referee who within seven days officiated at three world's championship bouts or forward stogie at once. A. Well, I believe the only time three world's championship bouts were fought in seven days was at New Orleans in September, 1892. John Duffy was the referee of the Sullivan-Corbett bout which was one of the three. So I figure John must have officiated at the other two. Do I win the stogie?

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Am asked what is the nationality of Louis Prima. He was born on Basin st. in New Orleans . . . Very few fat men take their wives along when buying a suit. Or at least that is my guess as to why so many fat men wear such tight fitting double breasted suits that they look like animated overstuffed sausages. There would be more Adolphe Menjous if wives were consulted more often . . . Note a dispatch referring to a freight steamship named the Ada Rehan. That is the first time I have heard of a steamship named after an actress.

Adolphe Menjou

BRIEFLY: So Hedy Lamarr has among other things a $75,000 chinchilla cape. What is the record for fur coat ownership? Has any woman in this country a fur coat worth $100,000? . . . Benito Collada, night club owner, is said to be the pioneer in bringing Latin-American entertainers to this country. The best entertainers from South America I ever saw were in a troupe from the Argentina called "The Land of Joy Dancers." Remember them?

Hedy Lamarr

PASSING BY: Ralph Craig, harness horse man from Urbana, O. He achieved what so many men have said is impossible. Instead of having a horse with a broken leg destroyed he perservered with the animal, cured him, and brought him back to the races. This horse, April Star, is now one of the leading winners of the harness horse world. The reason so many race horses are destroyed after suffering a broken leg is because a horse has to be dead before the insurance on him can be collected.

SIDELIGHTS: Mokey, a 2-year-old Cocker spaniel owned by Marvin E. Cohrts of Los Angeles, has just given birth to a litter of 13 puppies. The average litter for Cocker spaniels is six. Mokey's 13 may be a record for her breed. Or can Brooklyn top it? . . . Jack Carlson, who has picked the winner of the Kentucky Derby for five consecutive years, says Rippey will win this year. I still like Knockdown.

PLEASE NOTE: During 1946, every woman should be able to purchase at least seven pairs of nylons. So states an expert on the subject. How is your wife doing? How many pairs has she been able to purchase so far? Does she know how to take good care of this hosiery? I understand making nylons last for a lengthy period is an art not easily mastered. It has been said not one woman in six even knows the proper way to put on a pair of nylons. I suggest that if your wife is not proficient in this respect, you send her to the nearest department store for some instructions. Because if anything happens to the little lady's nylons she will be singing the blues and this will have a tendency to make the atmosphere of your domicile a depressing one.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THERE IS a campaign running now for the abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, whose chairman, John S. Wood of Georgia, has, in practical effect, abdicated the job and turned over a thankless and bitterly trying task to John Rankin of Mississippi.

Westbrook Pegler

The source of this organized propaganda is New York, where political hysteria has been carefully fomented over a period of years to the end that, as now, the people are incapable of calm, objective political judgment and candidates and managers constantly flout the principles of the cherished Fair Employment Acts to emphasize racial and religious divisions, ignoring all normal considerations, including even loyalty to the United States and the Constitution.

Among those who have joined this campaign directed against Rankin, there are some, including a few editorial voices, who should stand by him but have unconsciously sunk into a state of intellectual and political intimidation so abject that they lack the stamina to resist certain K-ration thoughts issued by the Communists and the Political Action Committee of the CIO.

This kind acquiesce to the extent of saying that of course we do need a Committee on Un-American Activities but that, of course, again, Mr. Rankin is impossible just as Martin Dies, before him, also was impossible in the same position.

FLAT ACCEPTANCE by so many Americans, including editorial writers and package-goods commentators, of the proposition that Mr. Dies was impossible was a cowardly injustice to a man who began absolutely green, fumbled a while but, by persistent study and through experience, became really learned in the perfidies and personalities and the interlocking associations of the Communist conspiracy against the existence of the United States.

He did not seek the job but accepted it in the pathetic manner of the comic-strip slob standing on a corner who agrees to mind a stolen satchel for a fugitive thief.

More experienced and less courageous Congressmen would have no part of it, for they foresaw painful troubles around the corner.

Dies could not foresee, but he soon learned that as soon as he turned his attention from the conspiracies of the Fascist organizations, which were more comic and contemptible than dangerous, and the operations of the Hitler Bund, to those of the Communists and their accomplices, he would become the object of a savage, ruthless and sustained war of personal abuse.

IN STRICT ACCORDANCE with the Communist and, if you will, Nazi method, Mr. Dies was held up to the nation as a Jew-hater although no record ever was found of any single utterance to support the charge nor any person who could say he had heard Mr. Dies express this sentiment.

However, he had found many persons with Jewish names, as well as those with Anglo-Saxon, Irish and Latin names, among the Communists and fellow-travelers.

Naturally, Mr. Dies exposed their activities and so it followed in the Communist propaganda that he was anti-Semitic and many Jews and others sincerely believed that he was.

Nevertheless, the files and reports which he accumulated were a contribution of great value, the importance of which would be freely acknowledged by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and, under honest conditions, the espionage services of the Army and Navy.

UPON ANALYSIS the worst offense charged to Rankin of Mississippi is that he has the sort of manly personal temper that most Americans respect in their friends and fellowmen.

Call him a dirty name and he will call you a dirtier one back and keep on raising you or see you outside if you prefer.

He has been the victim of vile abuse, as Dies was, but, unlike the patient and often rather forlorn member from Texas, he takes his own personal part and no man can say that his outbursts were either gratuitous or incorrect.

The epithets that he has uttered in response to filthy personal slanders have not been condemned as inappropriate or excessive but only on the ground of indecorum.

The same propaganda has condoned, even lauded, the policies of Senator Wagner and Representative Marcantonio of New York and has accepted as nothing worse than amusing repartee the harsh language without which Fiorello La Guardia often finds it impossible to express himself.

Hollywood

By Dorothy Manners
Substituting for Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 23—Sometime this morning Marilyn Maxwell appears in a Los Angeles court to divorce John Conte. And just as the new page turns over in her private life—she is also getting the biggest boost to her movie career.

She'll be beautiful, blonde and bad (it's really the top femme role) in "Ah, Wilderness" with Mickey Rooney. Guess what "Ah Wilderness" has now been retitled? "Summertime Holiday," no less, which may or may not set Eugene O'Neill into a tailspin.

Marilyn Maxwell

This will be Marilyn's first real chance to shine as an actress. Heretofore she's been glamorous and sexy, and crooned a torchy number or two. In keeping with her new status, I hear there will be a definite curtailment of all the publicity night-club dating "news" that has marked her activities to date.

IDA LUPINO is a busy gal of a girl. Seems that every other day or so she runs through my typewriter ribbon doing this picture or that. And she has still another coming up—"The Affair of the Diamond Necklace" for the energetic Ben Bogeaus. Having firmly anchored Ida, Ben is now fishing for Charles Laughton and Brian Aherne for the male leads. Story concerns a female "Raffles" who lifted a fabulous diamond necklace during the reign of Louis XVI.—you know, the well known chair man. Ladislas Fodor and Rose Simon Kohn, the latter brought from England by Bogeaus, collaborated on the original screenplay.

MGM IS TAKING a long shot gamble and eliminating any hint of romance in "Robinson Crusoe," Spencer Tracy's next. This has been a subject of debate among the biggies for the past 10 days. Movies without a strong romantic theme have seldom been box office winners in the past. But any love story would be strictly hokey and, at the final voting, it was Spence himself who threw his weight toward skipping the clinches. Now the only remaining love interest in the script is between Tracy and a parrot.

VERONICA LAKE started out playing hell-raisers on the screen and zoomed to fame being a siren with a peek-a-boo bang. Then she put her foot down and was determined to be a lady. Maybe there's no moral to this—but she didn't seem as exciting and attractive after refinement set in (refcrring to her movie roles, of course, silly). Now she's going back to her first character—a girl who is so hardboiled that even the cowboys seem tame in "Ramrod" with Joel McCrea for Harry Sherman. Her husband, Andre de Toth, must not object to these carryings-on, because he's directing the movie.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Van Johnson and Sonja Henie may be "just good friends," but his feelings were hurt when he didn't hear a word from her while he was in the hospital. No note—no message—no telephone call—not even a wilted weed. This romance has been rumored as cooling before. This time I think the freeze will be as permanent as the ice Missy Sonja skates on. She, meanwhile, is getting ready to go East on business and to witness the Louis-Conn fight.

JOAN CRAWFORD is back in town with the children from Las Vegas and La Quinta to get ready for "The Secret" at Warners. After the picture is finished, she is seriously considering taking the two youngsters and the Oscar to England, because she's had two unusually attractive offers to make films there. One, believe it or not, is Daphne Du Maurier's "The King's General" for Alexander Korda. A heroine confined to a wheel-chair who goes from extreme youth to old age through the story, seems an odd role for the vivid Crawford. But she's interested—and if Joan put her mind to it she could play Camille with a peg-leg.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Liz Whitney is telling her intimates that she is not marrying John Ringling North or anyone else; Betty Newling and Al Bloomingdale, the department store heir, must have patched up their quarrel because they were holding hands at a movie the other night; in the novel, there are 11 loves in Forever Amber's life. On the screen there will be a measly six. Half-a-love is better than none at all, you might say; Mary Astor, who furnished the first cheese cake pictures in Hollywood, will be guest of honor at the 25th anniversary dinner of the American Society of Cinematographers June 3rd; it's all over with Herman (Cuco's) Hover and Ruth Chumley. She's gone back to Boston.

MADAME MARGARET MOMLOK, famed hand-analyst, who has "read" for Hendrik Willem Van Loon, H. V. Kaltenborn, Vicki Baum and Gertrude Lawrence, is in Hollywood to look over the handscapes; Bob Landry, the photog, whose current assignment is Peggy Cummins, gets an official one—viewing the A-bomb tests in July through his camera; Loretta Young and Tom Lewis trained in over the week-end and mighty glad to be home again; Jennifer Holt, she's the actress daughter of Jack Holt, and William Bakewell are the latest romantics; did you know that Gilbert Wilson, husband of Elsie Janis, had been signed by Buddy Rogers as production assistant on "Little Iodine"? Shirley Temple celebrated her 18th birthday party with 18 schoolgirl pals at the Beverly Tropics Sunday. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

THE YOUNG WIFE of Teddy (The Kid) Williams is in a hospital . . . Prowlers burgled the hotel apartment of a wealthy Boston manufacturer and won $20,000 in furs . . . It is currently on tour and is selling out in the hinterlands . . . "The Desert Song" is the operetta which made theatrical history by running for 76 consecutive weeks on the Pacific Coast in 1927-28.

IT FEATURES a hero who is masked until the last few moments, and consequently is a producer's delight . . . Many a great musical comedy or operetta male voice is available to Broadway casting directors — could the face of the voice be masked . . . "The Desert Song" has another claim to fame . . . When its fabulous weekly box office statements continued to arrive at the New York office of Schwab and Mandel, original producers of the show, the producers — Larry Schwab and Frank Mandel—were obliged, as businessmen, to pay attention . . . The obvious query was: "How long has this territory - the Pacific Coast—been escaping our attention? . . ." It cost one of the partners, Larry Schwab, puh-lenty . . . He went to Los Angeles and paid for the production cost of "Follow Through"—another Schwab and Mandel hit—as if he were staging it for discriminating New York audiences.

BUT the expatriated Iowans who inhabit Los Angeles and environs did not appreciate the difference between a "made in New York" production with real silk costumes (by Kiviatt) and scenery made by McDonald Construction Co. . . . It cost Larry and his partners nearly $100,000—because they believed they would have the same sort of success with a formula show that they had enjoyed with a freak with a sheik . . . There has not since been an attempt (in 17 years) to create a New York-class musical comedy production in Louella Parsons' bailiwick.

OUR FAIR CITY is alive with fine cabaret entertainment — in case Easter Week celebrators care to continue in the free-spending mood they evidenced last night . . . Anna Mary Dickey is at the Statler . . . She is the only good-looking bona-fide Metropolitan Opera soprano at large . . . Georgie Price is at the Bradford Roof, and the Gunsetts — Renee and Maarcya—are supporting him . . . So are the Robertsons - Eddie and Lucille . . . In reviewing the Bradford show ten days ago, we started to tell you about Eddie and Lucille Roberts . . . But the column ran out of space . . . Eddie and Lucille Roberts are the attractive young team we used to rave about when the Westminster was a going concern, and when it had a cafe . . . They were original and fresh then . . . Today, Eddie and Lucille Roberts are the outstanding exponents of the type of act once known as mind reading . . . Today, mind readers are "mentalists" . . . (Same difference, as Kid Parker would say).

NEW YORK, April 23—The boys are telling this one on Fred Allen: It seems Fred (noted for his handouts) has been supporting an old vaudeville actor for some years now, to the tune of $50 a week. The other day the pensioner called him and said he felt he'd have to have a raise to $75 a week—because he was getting married! P. S. Allen gave it to him . . . Quite a mixup the other day in front of the Pierre. Vivica Lindfors, the new Swedish importation, drove off with Charles Boyer's luggage — quite accidentally of course—and Boyer chased after to retrieve it. Both were Hollywood-bound.

Fred Allen

LUTHER ADLER is finding model Kay Norton the only thing that can take his mind off his new organization—a group which is out to combat the drama critics . . . Kay Francis' Chicago companion is Dr. William Kroger, who became famous for his experiments with hypnosis . . . A customer pulled a six-shooter on George Givot at the Florentine Gardens in Hollywood, alleging that the comedian was "corny." He didn't shoot but it may open a whole new era in cafe-going . . . The illness of Mayor Kelly of Chicago is reported the result of strenuous dieting . . . Slava Toumine, a member of the "Song of Norway" ballet, designs ties for a Park ave. cravat salon. Each tie costs more than a pair of tickets to "Song of Norway" . . . Margaret Whiting will take the number one feminine spot in a national poll of song stars to be announced within a fortnight. Dinah Shore has held the position for the past several years.

INTIMATES SAY Mae Clark, the actress, has been the secret bride of song-writer Herb Langdon for several months . . . Bookies are dressing as "grease-monkeys" to escape being picked up by police . . . The 45th st. citizenry is busy outlining the tiff between scenic designer Lem Ayres and Ed Gross, producer of "St. Louis Woman" . . . Care to know how the term "hubba hubba" originated? It's derived from the Chinese "Hao pu hao" meaning "How are you?" (I'm fine, How are you?)

WASHINGTON, April 23—Confirmation of Commodore James K. Vardaman as governor of the Federal Reserve Board has put an end to a White House feud that threatened to become as heated as the Army-Navy dispute over unification.

Happy Chandler

Vardaman was President Truman's naval aide. Brig. Gen. Harry Vaughan was the military aide, and still is.

Vardaman has pixy sense of humor which he employed in needling Vaughan and members of his office. At least once a day he used to drive Miss Ruth Anderson, Gen. Vaughan's secretary, to the verge of homicide by calling up and chirping:

"Hello—is this the White House bottleneck?"

A READER who must be a fan of those popular Irish song writers, Gilbert and Sullivan, has sent in the following:

"The Communist press of Europe claims that Yugoslavia has become a virtual paradise. No doubt the little birdies there will now warble: 'Tito Willow—Tito Willow—Tito Willow.'"

MISS MARION REID, who is a very impulsive type, called from the Capitol the other day all aflutter.

"Happy Chandler is on the floor!" she cried.

"On the floor, eh?" I said. "How did he get there—by trying to slide into Senator Barkley thinking he was second base?"

"You think you're smart, don't you?" said Miss Reid. The question proved to be purely rhetorical because she continued:

"The floor of the Senate is a very exclusive place and Happy Chandler is no longer a Senator. He is high commissioner of baseball—unless, of course, he has jumped to the Mexican League without my hearing of it. Come to think of it, however, he can't have gone to the Mexican League; he wasn't wearing a tortilla in his buttonhole."

"How about a raton in his hair?"

"Caramba!" cried Miss Reid. "You certainly are the funny one, no?—and I mean no. But what was he doing on the floor, not being a Senator any longer?"

I always like to impress Miss Reid, because I find it is good for office morale, so while she was talking I was thumbing madly through the Senate manual. I found what I wanted on page 37 and spoke authoritatively just as if it was something I had always known.

"Under the Senate rules," I said, "any person who has ever been a Senator is entitled to the privileges of the floor for the rest of his life. He also has the right to continue calling himself 'Senator,' even if he only filled out an unexpired term of three days under the first Cleveland Administration.

"That is why," I added, "there are so many 'Senators' roaming the country addressing old ladies' clubs today."

MISS REID hung up abruptly, but she was back on the wire an hour later with more hot bulletins about Happy Chandler.

"He just came out of the Senate restaurant," she burbled. "If you ask me, he set a very bad example, because baseball commissioners are supposed to keep away from anything which has even the remotest suggestion of gambling. But Happy was absolutely brazen about it."

"What are you babbling about? I demanded. "For heaven's sake, what did he do that had any tie-up with gambling?"

"It was awful," said Miss Reid. "He ordered shoot-a-buck pudding!"

STILL LATER Miss Reid reported that Chandler was having his picture taken with Senator James M. Mead of New York and Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois.

"Guess what?" she yelled. "They both used to play baseball! Senator Mead was with Niagara Falls of the old International League and Senator Lucas played with Peoria and Bloomington in the Three I League!"

I advised Miss Reid to get away from Chandler and vicinity and calm down before Happy signed her up to play with the Bloomer Girls. I will not print her reply.

DURING A HEARING on the dangers of inflation before the House banking and currency committee, Rep. Wright Patman of Texas became a bit fuddled in his economics.

"Do you," he demanded of an utterly bewildered witness, "want an honest American dollar worth 76 cents or one worth only 25 cents?"

Stark Italian Film Tells Of Occupation's Horrors

By PEGGY DOYLE

As no other war film import has done, "Open City," the Italian-made picture dealing with Rome during the German occupation, catches the anguish and horror of a city stalked by the Four Horsemen of death, disease, starvation and the enemy's torture chambers.

Now showing on the Old South screen, this film is not a documentary and yet suggests one because of its accurate, untricked-up coverage. It is heart-stopping proof of how different for civilians was the war that Europe knew from the one we knew.

Listening to its talk, one has the feeling of eavesdropping on the actual conversations of people who, in the imminence of death, have sloughed off peacetime veneers and are talking from their hearts.

Throughout there is a candid camera quality about performances and subject matter that gives an uncanny, firsthand illusion. There is an insistent feeling of being there, actually seeing personally all the human misery and nobility that spell war in any language.

It couldn't happen here where scenarists and producers have a tacit agreement to hoke it up. The Italian studio had the real thing at hand and the whole evil, ugly truth had to be told. It is told with the simplicity and honesty of great poetry. You forget that the people in this frightful story are actors.

A notable performance is Aldo Fabrizi's as the Catholic priest, who does not realize until they are undergoing slow-motion death by torture that his partner in the Resistance belongs to the anti-Catholic Reds.

Fabrizi looks like any parish priest, plain-looking, undramatic, his face deeply etched with lines of compassion and wisdom. His matter-of-fact heroism is effected without heroics.

Of that same high quality are Anna Magnani's portrayal of Pina, the proletarian fiancee who is shot down by the Germans on the night she was to be married; Marcello Pagliero's Communist leader; 8-year-old Vita Annicchiarico, bereft son of the murdered woman —all of these and the rest in a superlatively fine cast perform as though they are not performing but caught unaware by a concealed camera.

To know what civilians elsewhere endured and to spur us to share our daily bread with Europe's starving survivors, "Open City" must be seen. It will help you to understand returned veterans' anger and disillusionment over postwar haste to put the war behind them and be merry.

TOSCANINI IN IRELAND

RINEANNA, Eire, April 23 (AP)—Conductor Arturo Toscanini arrived at Shannon airport today en route from New York to Milan for reopening of La Scala Opera House May 11.

AMONG THE TOP recording orchestras of the country, Charlie Barnet's band is to head the new stage show at the RKO Boston, beginning Thursday.

Tipperary Ass'n Reunion Thursday

The 39th Annual Reunion and Ball of the Tipperary Ass'n of Greater Boston will be held Thursday evening, at the Hibernian Building, 184 Dudley st., Roxbury.

Gov. Tobin, a member for the past ten years, and other state and city officials will be among the guests.

'Bigger-Than Barnum' Ranks With Top Patience Testers

By PEGGY DOYLE

One cliche scuffed another's heels . . . they came that fast . . . last night at the Wilbur where Boston's newest contender for worst-play-of-the-season dishonor, "Bigger Than Barnum," provided only embarrassment and an endurance test.

"Bigger Than Barnum" is the sort of thing that keeps the home fires burning. As a matter of fact, it sent quantities of paying customers home for the evening after the first act. They may not have gone home directly but they went out of the theater directly after the first-act introduction to as tedious, uninspired and unlikable an assortment of humans as ever peopled a stage.

It is virtually newsworthy that not one character in this farce which Fred Rath and Lee Sands have written as well as produced has the vaguest appeal. Even toothsome Chili Williams, favorite pinup girl of our overseas veterans, is made to seem a bore by reason of the birdbrain "sides" she has been given.

Benny Baker, reminiscing with the Record's George W. Clarke the other night about the prosperous Danny Kaye - starring "Let's Face It" run here and his pleasure in being a member of the cast, is quoted as saying but now he has a good role. It isn't, Mr. Baker could sue for what his repulsive Perly Drake does to alienate the lastnighters' affections for a guy named Benny Baker. This erstwhile nice butterball of a buffoon has been erased by the authors and director Edward Clarke Lilley to make way for as snide and unsavory a slicker as ever came out of the woodwork.

Summertime Linen

WHEN SKIES are blue there is always this pale blue linen suit by Mel Davidow to keep cool and comfortable in. Aristocratically designed . . . it is tailored with scalloped edges . . . the scallop motif repeated on the short-sleeve cuff . . . and silhouetted to hug the figure softly and frankly. Two pockets below the shoulders on the bodice . . . the opened line below the three-button closing . . . and the longer skirt make it brand new.

LINEN will be one of the most popular fabrics for warm-weather wear this season . . . and here Mel Davidow treats it to perfection in pale blue with a nonchalant neatness that makes for distinction. Sweater ribbing . . . effectively applied . . . gives a yoked appearance to the capped-sleeve bodice . . . and is used again for waistline loops to hold a dark red leather belt firmly on the inset fabric belt for a two-fold belted purpose.

WINGED SHOULDERS . . . meaning deep armholes . . . interestingly accented by quilting of the fabric . . . "make" this white rayon pique summertime frock by Mel Davidow a standout number. Because of the quilting the shoulder extends out and definitely to enhance a small waistline effect . . . and call attention to the underarm buttoning on one side. The narrow pique belt . . . the demure neckline tie . . . the fuller skirt are appealing details of this unusual manipulation of pique.

Clothes Comfort—Davidow

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT'S THE simple things that make a lifetime . . . but life is no simple thing. And neither is linen . . . although linen is a simple gift to fashion. With the return to normal and gracious living . . . and women looking like women again . . . linen returns to center spotlight as one of the headlining fashion fabrics for warm weather.

This is a good time to start thinking about the warm, sunny days ahead . . . when comfort supersedes high style, yet doesn't totally obscure it. And for those taxing future days when cool, chic freshness is your fashion stock in trade . . . linen will be a fine figure and fair weather pal.

That's why it is being shown in virtually every top-flight designer collection this season . . . held to be a fabric sensation with some. And with Mel Davidow, too, whose credo is focused on simplicity and perfection of line and fabric. For summer he gives it an enviable place.

Think back in reflection and remember. Don't you always associate a gracious personality with a linen costume in summer? We do! It's the aristocrat of the warm-weather cloths because it is smooth and soft and genteel . . . lending itself to clever manipulation, elite simplicity and wonderful accessorization.

Summertime linen will be exceedingly smart this season.

(Tomorrow's Designer: Lloyd Weill)

SMART clothes have simple lines. This has always been a fact and it remains true in clothes for the spring and summer, 1946. The call is still constant for comfort in clothes, and although functionalism is stressed, clothes have more of the natural drape than the severe appearance of super-utility that has been prominent some years back.

Accordingly, women strive, I think, to get away from the angular look and reach toward femininity in line. That's why in my collection, the foregoing naturally is stressed in simple materials and becoming colors, two items which enhance a woman's figure personality.

If, as someone said, man expresses himself in the manner of his style (writing), women do as much in the manner of their style (clothes).

Cook Vegetables With Much Care

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

UNLESS VEGETABLES are cooked by protective methods, their impressive amounts of vitamins and minerals may be lost. Baking is considered one of the best methods because no water and only moderate heat are used. When boiling, only the smallest possible amount of water should be used so that principle food values are retained.

There's no need for common vegetables to grow monotonous if they are served in these interesting ways.

CARROT CUSTARD

3 eggs
1½ cups grated uncooked carrots
3 cups milk 1 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. butter or margarine

Beat eggs slightly and add remaining ingredients in order given. Pour into a greased baking dish, place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 25 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

New Polish That Shimmers

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHAT MAKES a new polish shimmer? Until yesterday it remained a well guarded secret. Today we know why it looks like sunlight on a butterfly's wings under artificial light . . . soft, satiny and twinkling in daylight. It's because it contains pearl essence.

And a thimbleful of pearl essence contains over three million individual crystals. Now you know why, too, this unusual shimmering polish . . . when used on fingernails and toenails . . . apes the iridescent sparkle of pearls. Ever notice how fish scales glitter with opalescence?

And wonderfully enough . . . our own New England fisheries are the principal source of American pearl essence used for this beautifying product. With summer in the not too distant future and most of us already thinking about those lazy-daisy days on the beach, think how truly you'll be a mermaid when you emerge from the briny deep . . . your twinkletoes glittering with iridescence and sparkle. Incidentally . . . this shimmering polish is much easier to apply and dries much faster . . . two endearing qualities to be sure. Add to this the fun of having your toenails as pretty as shining seashells and fingertips looking as lovely as candle-lit jewels . . . and you have a fairly good idea why we think it is grand. It comes in several stunning shades.

For the name of this seashell shimmering polish pearl, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, Monday through Saturday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Quiet, Please!

SALT LAKE CITY, April 23 (AP)—Soup slurpers who set to with gusto may be somewhat subdued from now on when they read the menus in Salt Lake City restaurants urging silence.

Meaning no offense to the customer, however, the Salt Lake Restaurant Ass'n said it had merely agreed to help the city's anti-noise campaign by printing "quiet" slogans on the menus.

This month it's Music

Mozart composed his clarinet trio in a billiard room. The working methods of many great composers—sometimes amusing, sometimes tortured, always human—are described in an article in the May issue of Good Housekeeping.

He wrote sublime melody to the click of billiard balls

FINE music is thrilling more people in America today than ever before.

The greatest compositions, interpreted by the finest symphony orchestras and concert artists, are being heard by a constantly growing audience. As more people discover the deep enjoyment to be had from great music, their interest in the men who wrote it and in the artists who play it increases.

On the music page in Good Housekeeping this month, you will find an unusually interesting article describing the curious ways in which some of the great composers worked.

For instance, Mozart could compose music anywhere, anytime—alone or with friends—even while playing billiards! Beethoven, on the other hand, was often driven to a fury of howling and stamping as he shaped and reshaped a single phrase.

With exceptionally readable and authoritative articles appearing regularly every month, Good Housekeeping is playing an important role in the current music revival. As a matter of fact, Good Housekeeping's music department provides the most widely read music page in America.

You will not find the usual pieces of music criticism or so-called "music appreciation" in Good Housekeeping. Good Housekeeping does not pretend to teach the layman the intricacies of musical composition or to tell its readers what they should or should not listen to.

Rather, most of the articles in Good Housekeeping are full of interesting information about personalities. In them, music is discussed so provocatively that the reader is left with a desire to listen. And they contain accurate, informative reporting of the outstanding events in the realm of music.

At the moment, our music editor is in Italy to cover Toscanini's opening of the famed La Scala Opera season in Milan. The women who read Good Housekeeping will get an intelligent firsthand report.

It has been said: "When you educate a man, you educate an individual; when you educate a woman, you educate a whole family." If this is true, it would be hard to name a source that has done more than Good Housekeeping to arouse the interest of American families in fine music.

Credits and Debits on The Early Red Sox Ledger

By AUSTEN LAKE

LET'S AUDIT THE EARLY efforts of the Red Sox, which baseball's Old Testament character, Connie Mack, cautiously labels an "int'ristin' team." It is! But primarily because of explosive thump and crisp fielding. The Sox of this anno domini have more youth, power and pigment than any Fenway fellowship since Tom Yawkey opened his pecuniary spigots 13 years ago and bought wholesale failure.

Austen Lake

On the credit side are two outfielders (Williams and DiMaggio), a second baseman (Doerr), a shortstop (Pesky) and a catcher (Hal Wagner), better or equal in their respective spots to any in the game. First base (York) and right field (Metkovich) are promissory notes, the security of which is being daily demonstrated. But Andres appears too heavy-footed to remain a permanent fixture at third—and isn't it a pity that the Sox front office wasn't more patient with Jim Tabor's peccadillos. Or is it too brash for a news puppy like me to tell an old hound like Eddie Collins how to run his boneyard?

Pitching Has Flopped

SO THAT'S THE PROFIT side and the rollcall of popular idols all of whom can splash hits against the whisky and shave-lotion advertising or perform gems of fielding. They are guaranteed pennant caliber there.

But the same old axiom exists today as it did when Gen. Abner Doubleday paced off his primitive diamond in a Cooperstown cow pasture in 1839 and said, "Let there be a game called baseball." Pitching is, and always will be, 75 per cent of any winning team's secret and if it isn't there, the Q. E. D. is "no pennant."

So that is the Sox debit side—an erratic staff which in its first six games has one well pitched game (by Micky Harris at Washington, April 18), and another ho-hum effort (by Tex Hughson against the Athletics Saturday).

The spine of the staff is supposed to be Hughson and Boo Ferriss. The other 10 pitchers are rated as varying gambles. Yet twice each, Tex and Boo received lip-stick kisses from Lady Luck, which gave Tex two shaky wins and saved Ferriss from two well-deserved losses, whereas in the normal trend both should be debitted with a pair of defeats. I trust the gentlemen, who are both amiable artisans, will not think me waspish in publicly parading their early distempers. If it will lessen the sting, I will add that, in both cases, I hope their rainbows lie just around the corner.

Hughson is a cordial giant who has candidly expressed his own puzzlement over his knack for getting into trouble—and out again with a minimum of damage. In his eighteen innings he has been belted generously for 19 hits, but only four runs—a curiously disproportionate ratio explained by Tex's ability to turn up his burner at critical moments. Still he was hit hard enough to lose the opening game which he won by Sox hitting and some nifty fielding. Tex was well tagged in that one and yet came on top 6 to 3. And he won Saturday on Pesky's ninth inning miracle homer, even if his early wobbles didn't show in the box score. So he owes two games to the liberality of the game's little gods.

"Hitting Is King"

BUT FERRISS IS THE GENT who should really shake hands with himself. He was plastered plentifully in his short total of 6 1-3 innings—12 hits and 10 runs. He lasted 3 2-3 innings at Washington Wednesday and was salvaged by 13 runs slugged in by his teammates plus a workman-like relief job by Earl Johnson, an alumnus of the Battle of the Bulge, who knows how to deal with bulges. I leave it to Joe Cronin's superior judgment why Johnson or Harris, who have turned in the best two pitching performances to date, didn't get the assignment in Sunday's second game. But it's easy to look back from the gray dawn of Tuesday logic and tell what should have happened Sunday.

And Ferriss was saved sensationally again on the Sabbath when he tucked his mitt in his hip pocket and stamped away after two and two-third innings with his game neatly tied with a baby blue ribbon and delivered to the Athletics. The score was 7 to Ouch against, yet the Sox won it 12 to 11 after George Metkovich slapped his wonder homer into the right field tray with two on and two out in the ninth and Ted Williams hit his game winning single in the 10th with the bases full.

So this is a kind of Red Sox pitching as will grow gray hairs in any manager's head; what with Cronin sitting constantly with a skullful of worry wondering when his pitcher-of-the-day will begin to come apart and whether the time to beckon him out of there is NOW, or whether to wait a while and wish he hadn't. The best that Joe can do is play his premonition or "hunch" like he did when he removed Mace Brown in Sunday's 10th inning after Mace had walked the first batter on five pitches. It was one of the shortest relief jobs on record.

But when Jim Bagby walked the first four men to face him in the first inning of the second game, Joe just kept making little squirrrel-cage motions with his fists as though saying, "Stay in there and fight" until finally he walked out and said, "Well, I guess it isn't your day." Which didn't come under the head of lightning calculation. Then Joe sent Randy Heflin in to lick the spoon.

Still, if Joe has his pitching perplexities, so do seven other league managers. In his brief post mortem Sunday Connie Mack predicted a universal pitching paralysis as the natural after effect of any hurler's life in the Army. "Batting will be king this year," said the 83-year-old sage. "Inactivity is death to pitchers, but it doesn't bother the batters." So Connie predicts a season of general mound misery and a renaissance of slug. Which should bring some comfort to Cronin during his midnight reveries in which, during the stilly hours, he consults his soul on how he might have chosen or changed pitchers more wisely. He will like to know that every other manager is suffering silently while shoveling the same sort of mental fog. It's that kind of a year.

Dempsey Refuses to Ref Williams Fight

LOS ANGELES, April 23 (AP)—Jack Dempsey has declined to referee the lightweight title fight between Champion Ike Williams and Enrique Bolanos April 30, commenting: "Let one of the local boys handle it."

Dempsey agreed, however, to officiate in the windup between Fabela Chavez and Jack McCoy, a four round affair.

Boston Players Ready To Jump to Mex League

By BILL GRIMES

NEW YORK, April 23—Agents of the Pasquel brothers, owners of the Mexican League, are very active in these parts. And, if they can guarantee that players will not be obligated to "throw" ball games in Mexico, a bombshell, which will rock the nation's baseball public, may be touched off in a few days.

Despite the aloof attitude of baseball magnates, there's hardly a "name" ball player in either the American or National leagues who hasn't been propositioned and even interviewed by Mexican agents. Moreover, many players are, right now, on the fence, trying to make up their minds on whether they should stick in organized ball or grab the big dough offered by the Pasquel brothers.

From a reliable source, I was informed last night that some of the boys under Boston contracts are not only dickering but about ready to "jump."

I haven't been able to get any favorable reaction from any player about the guild. Ball players are always hesitant when it comes to spending money, even to pay union dues which the promoters say will free them from the bonds of "slavery, a paltry $7500 or $10,000 for six months' work. But the same athletes will lend an attractive ear to any proposition with a more remunerative return than their current contracts.

So, the Mexican agents are not experiencing the slightest trouble making appointments with players, whom they have selected to entertain the South of the Border baseball fans.

Recently, the agents, who are assigned to "cover" this district, offered two well known players $10,000 bonuses to be paid before they left "Big Town" and five-year contracts calling for $15,000 per annum.

The players made a counter proposal. "If you'll give us the bonuses and deposit $30,000 (two years' salary) in a U. S. bank, we'll accept the offers." They didn't bring up the matter of "throwing" ball games, at that conference.

Apparently the agents haven't the authority to accept or reject any counter propositions without first consulting the Pasquel brothers. They informed the players that they'd submit the answer tonight.

For public consumption, baseball magnates are be-littling the Mexican situation. But, unquestionably, they have "bird dogs" who are keeping them posted on the whereabouts of their players. They are aware of the inroads the Pasquels are making.

Although the abolition of the excess profits tax, plus a sports mad public with more money than it ever dreamed was in this world has the stage set for them to make the biggest financial cleanup in the annals of the national pastime, the magnates are not doing anything to protect their investments or organized baseball.

It isn't the fact that Commr. "Happy" Chandler has ruled that any player jumping his contract to play in Mexico will not be eligible to apply for re-instatement for five years that's holding players in organized ball. It is the well founded suspicion that because there's so much gambling in Mexico, the league sponsors will demand that games be "thrown" to protect their "books."

One of the players with whom I talked last night said, "I know that if I stay up here I cannot make $85,000 in the next five years. Maybe, the Mexican League will not last that long. But if they will give me that $10,000 bonus and put $30,000 in a San Antonio bank in my name and guarantee me that I will not be ordered to 'dump' any games, I'll gladly go to Mexico. I'm not going to make 'forty grand' in these parts in the next two years.

"I'm in this game to make money," continued my informant, "and I don't give a d--- whether I make it in this country or Mexico. But, regardless of the money involved, I'll never knowingly be a party to throwing ball games. I have far too much respect for baseball to do anything that would hurt the game."

English Nine Target For Roslindale High

By MIKE GILLOOLY

"Just wait until we catch up with English!"

That was all the talk in high school ranks around Roslindale way as Coach Fred Murray's nifty little ball club made it three in a row for the season at the expense of Brandeis Vocational to retain its top rung on the Boston Conference ladder.

Before the opening of the season, Roslindale was being touted as the team to watch in the Hub ranks. Coach Murray had a scattering of veterans returning, some promising material coming up the ranks and the combination showed signs of moulding into a powerful club. So far, the team has lived up to early promise, turning out triumphs over Charlestown and Public Latin before erasing Brandeis.

Coach Murray has Bob McEwen on the firing line, ready to step to the mound against English (Hub leaders in the State championship bid last spring) in the first of the intown "crucial" games Friday at Billings Field. And by Friday, southpaw Frank Hailer, winner over Brandeis, will be ready if Coach Murray decides to baffle the Blue and Blue from the portside.

There'll be no shift from the winning combination. Dom Bright, a steady veteran, will be behind the plate, directing an infield of Andy Mantineo, 1b; John Lynch, 2b; George Boudreau, 3b, and Tony "Doc" Festa, ss. The outfield will have Harvey Corbo in center, flanked by John Padgett and either McEwen or Hailer.

Haverhill High, opening its defense of the Essex County Baseball League tomorrow against Lynn English (and probably drawing ace Bob Upton on the mound) will be hard hit with three of its regulars now wearing U. S. Navy uniforms . . . Coach Felix Andrus lost right fielder Dick Carbone last week, leaving a vacancy for freshman Paul David . . . previously, the Hillies lost Rico Carifio and Deno Valoras, a pair of veterans.

Salem at Beverly, Peabody at Gloucester and Lawrence at Lynn Classical will be the other openers . . . and it certainly is good news that any club that wins the crown this year will be eligible for the Eastern State Title play in June.

Medford's defending titlists in the Greater Boston circuit will probably have either Jim Canty or Charlie Garrity, southpaw, on the mound for the Greater Boston League opener against Malden . . . other GB games list Somerville at Revere and Chelsea at Lowell . . . Coach Stan Stoklosa's Lowell outfit, with a top-notch moundsman in Eddie Stearns, will bear watching.

Coach "Gigi" Kenneally will be moving a "beef trust" line into Lowell Stadium Sunday afternoon as his Revere High eleven winds up spring training in an exhibition game against Keith Academy . . . from tackle to tackle, the Beach City line reads: Justin Capidulupo, 225, and Tony Andreiotta, 204, at tackles; Herb Hodus, 205, and Bob Willis, 204, at guards; Vin Roponi, 185, at center . . . Roy French, converted from center, will be a fixture in the backfield.

'Jug' Tinkers With All Clubs

By BYRON NELSON

Writing of changing my clubs around, as I did in the previous column, reminded me that while it is something I have done only once in a while, there are some players who are continually changing their clubs.

Gene Sarazen, for instance, is one player who likes to work on his clubs in the shop. I remember well on one occasion when he was carrying a bag full of irons, except for the deep pitching clubs, with the lofts all canted on about the same angle as the loft of a No. 4 iron.

Leo Diegel, a star of the Hagen era, and a player who has probably hit the flag on his second shot more often than any man in the game, was another golfer who was always in the shop working on his clubs with the bending tools and making them suit the swing he had that day. I remember seeing him play in a tournament when nearly every iron in his bag was a jigger.

A jigger may be a strange club to the younger generation of golf, but you older golfers will remember a jigger as being a club with about the loft of a No. 4 iron, but it had a thin narrow blade. With a jigger you could hit the ball high or low or slice it or hook it quite easily. It was an excellent club with which to play a chip and run shot off the edge of the green.

Harold (Jug) McSpaden probably tinkers with his clubs more than any of the modern golfers, especially with his wooden clubs. Harold has a driver for every day in the week and he is continually changing the loft and length of his drivers and his other wood clubs.

One day he adds lead to his woods and the next he takes it out. That's particularly true if Harold is lying around before a tournament with plenty of time on his hands. But funny as it may seem, in view of the fact that he apparently is never satisfied with his clubs, McSpaden is a very good driver and hits an exceptionally long ball.

Ben Hogan is another player who makes changes in his clubs. He likes the weight in the clubhead distributed a little differently than most of us do.

Of course, the club which all the boys fool around with more than any other, and that includes McSpaden, is the putter. It seems as though we all use putters to suit the mood we're in.

Braves, Phils To Play at Fenway

The Boston Braves management today announced that the Braves-Philadelphia Blue Jays week-end series has been shifted to Fenway Park because of the "paint situation" at Braves Field, forcing the move for the single game Saturday and the double-header Sunday.

Undried paint on seats at Braves Field caused considerable embarrassment to the fans at the opening of the season and the situation hasn't yet been adjusted.

Fans who have already made reservations must exchange their tickets at Braves Field Thursday or Friday at Fenway Park Saturday and Sunday.

Lanier Taking Over As Top Card Hurler

Max Lanier, a perennial runner-up, is fast becoming the ace of the Cardinals' all-star pitching staff after years of playing second fiddle to such big names as Mort Cooper, Lon Warneke and Curt Davis, according to the Associated Press. The behunky left-hander from Denton, N. C., back from a tour of Army duty, has won his first two starts in most impressive fashion to set the pace for the high-flying Red Birds' five-game winning streak.

When Lanier first came to the big show in 1938, Davis was one of the fellows who hogged the headlines. The Warneke regime covered 1940 and 1941 when Ernie White first rocketed into the picture. Then came Cooper who reigned from 1942 until he was sold to Boston last spring.

Lanier might have made the No. 1 spot last year but arm trouble bothered him in the early spring and in May he went into the Army.

Although he was a holdout this spring, Lanier reported to the St. Petersburg camp bright and early and has pitched himself into excellent condition. The left-hander's first effort was a shutout over Pittsburgh on the second day of the season and yesterday he turned back Cincinnati, 4-1, with six hits. Johnny Vandermeer was the loser.

Despite Lanier's chucking and the Cards' fifth straight triumph, they were unable to shake off the pesistent Dodgers, who likewise ran their win streak to five by shading the Braves, 5-4, in 10 innings.

The Giants resumed relations with the Phillies and got back on the winning side, 7-6.

Detroit found reason to rejoice in the excellent debut of Dizzy Trout, who blanked Chicago's White Sox, 4-0, with six blows. The dizzy one had been troubled by an aching back last summer, but showed no traces of any ailment in handcuffing the Pale Hose.

Floyd Bevens made his first start a winning one in hurling the Yankees to a 2-1 "squeaker" over Philadelphia's Luther Knerr. Joe DiMaggio tied the game with a triple in the sixth and scored the winning run on Charley Keller's single a few moments later.

Although Chicago and Pittsburgh in the National and Cleveland and St. Louis in the American were not scheduled the total attendance for the first complete week of play soared to 1,008,422 with the help of amazing Monday turnouts of 24,902 at Brooklyn and 23,407 at the Yankee Stadium.

'Plastic Casters' Down to 20

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Still in existence is that unique organization of anglers, known as "The Plastic Casters Club," composed of patients at the Cushing General Hospital, Framingham. These servicemen are wearing casts, as the name implies, and each chap is eager to discard his plastic one as soon as possible, so that he may enjoy the "casts" made with a fly rod.

The group once numbered over 200, but has been reduced to a score, since many of the members were released, fit and well again. Last season, the boys were conveyed to the Mass. Fish and Game Association's trout pools, at Norfolk, where they partook of several fishing excursions . . . Paul Provandie, Chairman of the Fishing Committee, tells us that the pools are open to this club at any time.

A former member of the famed 2nd Armored—"Hell on Wheels" Division, 24-year-old Jim Grosner, of Stratford, Ct., is now in charge of the Plastic Casters. This combat vet has been in the hospital 19 months, but he keeps on smiling, for he has become adept at the art of tying flies—a hobby that occupies most of his time.

"I've been fishing ever since I could walk," he grinned. "I became interested in fly tying last winter, and have turned out over 500 patterns since then . . . The doctors say I will be released late this summer, so I don't mind being confined to bed too much—but why did they have to operate on my leg on the opening day of the trout season?"

Jim is the happy possessor of one of the fly tying kits being distributed by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, through the Disabled Veteran's Fund, made possible by readers . . . He has fashioned his own fly book of leather, getting set to visit his favorite spot along the banks of the Housatonic River, in Connecticut.

CLUB CHATTER: The Boston Angler's Club will conduct its monthly meeting at the Mary Curley School, Jamaica Plain, Friday evening, at eight o'clock. Fishing films will be shown, while Mayor J. M. Curley is expected to be the guest of honor . . . Field trials are scheduled next Sunday at the Falmouth Air Port, Hatchville, sponsored by the Falmouth Rod and Gun Club. Three stakes will be run, and entries close April 26, according to Secretary David Quinn . . . Tom Lordan, Hingham Sportsman's Club, hooked a 21-inch rainbow in the Weir River, last week . . . Three other members were also lucky at the Trout Drawing: Bill Delano and Ace Loud won reels, while Maj. At Dow carried off a fly rod!

Tragedy Feared When Ball Dropped Pesky

By JACK CONWAY

THERE WAS a shudder through the stands at Fenway Park when Johnny Pesky was dropped to the ground when hit on the head by one of Sid Hudson's pitches in the game between the Senators and Red Sox . . . As Pesky was carried from the field every person at the game feared the possibility of the injury being fatal . . . There was great relief later when it was announced that the Sox shortstop would be all right.

Johnny Pesky

Those of us who have seen the tragedies as well as the brilliant moments of sport thought of the day Ray Chapman, great Cleveland shortstop, died following being hit on the head by Carl Mays of the Yanks, a former Red Sox pitcher in the days of Babe Ruth, and of the occasion when Mickey Cochrane was knocked unconscious by a pitched ball . . . Baseball, like every other sport, has its physical risks . . . One of the most serious dangers to a ball player occurs when he is hit on the head by a pitched ball.

Ernie Schaaf, formerly of Wrentham, was one of boxing's most prominent fatalities—Schaaf was knocked unconscious in a bout with gigantic Primo Carnera in the New York Garden . . . He never regained consciousness and died four days later after a vain effort was made to save his life by performing a delicate brain operation.

Schaaf's decline as a boxing great started when he was knocked unconscious by Max Baer in a bout in Chicago . . . The punch that dropped Schaaf to the canvas was scored with less than 10 seconds of the 10th round to go, and as a result Baer was not credited with a kayo . . . Schaaf was never able to reach his former fistic peak after his crushing setback by Baer.

Carrying On for Joe

SPORTS writers hesitated on cracking down on Joe Cronin as a manager when he was an active player . . . The day when a critical article appeared Joe would usually come through with a home run that would win the game for the Sox . . . Times have changed since Cronin became a bench manager . . . A bench manager cannot hit home runs, and so the noble sports writers started to show more boldness in criticizing the Sox leader . . . The Sox players are now hitting the home runs for Cronin as was once more the case yesterday when Eddie Pellagri, who replaced Johnny Pesky when the latter was injured, slammed the ball out of the ball park . . . Of course it cannot be expected that the Sox will maintain their present maddening pace, but they are proving in most convincing style that they are one of the most powerful offensive ball clubs in baseball.

Curley Grieve, sports editor of the San Francisco Examiner, comes to bat with an article in which he answers the criticism of Cronin made by Harold Kaese in a recent article in the Saturday Evening Post.

"Kaese asserts one criticism of Cronin is that he has too many Californians on his club," writes Grieve . . . "Joe McCartny has even more than Cronin . . . Yet no one in New York seemed to think there was anything wrong with Joe DiMaggio, Lefty Gomez, Frankie Crosetti, Mark Koenig, Tony Lazzerri, Ernie Bonham and the numerous other Californians who contributed so much to that mighty organization.

Dom DiMaggio's Case

"But Kaese with a finger on Jackie Tobin of Oakland makes a specific issue of a false premise while nodding his head stubbornly at Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr and Dom DiMaggio."

Grieve points out it was Cronin who came up with two outstanding pitchers, Tex Hughson and Dave Ferriss and that he also put through the deal for Dom DiMaggio despite opposition from the Sox scouts and Tom Yawkey . . . Dom has proved a baseball bargain.

Grieve praises Cronin's sterling character and courage, admits he is moody at times, but he adds this condition is saved by Joe's Irish humor.

The bats of Cronin's Californians will silence all critics until such time as the club meets with a few reverses.

I have always felt that Hugh Duffy, who holds the all time batting mark of .428 and who now is a Sox aide, paid the highest tribute to Cronin when he declared during a period when the club was in a slump, "Cronin is the most courageous ball player I have ever known, and his spirit will eventually get his club going again."

As a bench manager, Joe will do better than he did as a playing manager . . . It is asking too much of a pilot to play regularly and still not make any mistakes in handling his pitchers and other players.

Boxing Clubs In Peace Pact

By RINGSIDE

The Callahan A. C. has withdrawn its protest against "Spider" Armstrong battling Sal Bartolo for the NBA featherweight championship at the Garden on May 3, and as a result harmony once more reigns in Boston fistic circles.

The Callahans will stage a bout between Tippy Larkin and Willie Joyce for the world's junior welterweight title at the Garden on April 29. Matchmaker Sam Silverman reports a large scale for this match.

There is also considerable interest in the featherweight title tussle between Armstrong and Bartolo.

Boxing is in the midst of a wild boom here and it is believed that, with the dove of peace hovering over the fistic game once more, both shows will do well.

Friday night at the Garden the Goodwin Club will have Johnny Cesario of the North End battling Dave Andrews of Lowell.

Williams Wonders At Pellagrini Power

By HERB FINNEGAN

Sang the 1912 Red Sox quartet: "It's Great To Be a Hero, If It's Only for a Day." They were singing about Hugh Bradley, substitute first baseman who lofted the first home run over Fenway's left field fence. Eddie Pellagrini is the 1946 Hugh Bradley. Eddie is a Dorchester boy.

His fame may be as ephemeral as Bradley's, but, if he never gets another chance to star at Fenway, he'll always have the satisfaction in his bosom that he hit a home run on his first appearance at the plate in Boston, and isn't that something?

This writer was from the Allston-Brighton district when Walter Lonergan broke in with the Red Sox on two hits and a stolen base. Lonergan still is referred to out Market st. way. He had guts. Most of the gang would have been scared to death to play with Hooper, Speaker and Lewis.

But Lonergan was a big guy, as fast as Mercury. Yet he didn't stick. Pellagrini is a little guy who's been on the fringes for years. He will stick, if not with the Red Sox, with some other club.

It was in '42 that Leo Durocher said: "Give me Pellagrini and I'll use him ahead of Pee-Wee Reese." He had seen Pelly bat one over the fence at Sarasota, something Jimmie Foxx used to do but didn't do that year. And Reese had been his 1941 shortstop when Brooklyn won the pennant. Pelly didn't stick around long. He was airmailed to Louisville, and from there enlisted in the Navy early in '42. He played shortstop for Mickey Cochrane and batted .350. Steve O'Neill tried to get him for Detroit in the Rudy York trade but the Sox sent Eddie Lake instead.

Pelly was a candidate for third base down in Sarasota, but not for long. He had a sore arm, a sacro-ilica, his wife had a baby. He was worried. He played about four games, and all he did was face Lanier, Pollet, Martin and Chandler. They were tough cookies. And he had been away since '41. At that, he and Rip Russell combined to beat Pollet and the Cards.

An "error of omission," as one Boston writer phrased it, put Pelly on the bench. He never got another shot at third. "His natural position is shortstop," said Cronin. And now you name a shortstop who can't play third base?

Well, the push is over. Under the GI Bill of Rights, Pelly has to be waived out of the league, it can't be done without a make-up. He's on his own now. He looks big enough to take care of himself, even though he tips the scales at 150.

Pelly's homer was the deciding run in the Sox 5-4 victory, their sixth win in seven starts . . . He substituted for Pesky, who was hit in the head by speedy Sid Hudson. Pesky, according to Cronin, seemed able to play today

Merritt Easy For Weinberg

Bill Weinberg, 216, of Chelsea, scored a five-round technical knockout victory over Dan Merritt, 203½, of Cleveland, in the Callahan A. C.'s scheduled 10-round feature boxing bout at the Arena. A crowd of 2591 saw the fight.

Although Weinberg's timing was a bit rusty, his terrific punching made the bout one-sided after the first minute or so. Merritt was dropped once in the first, second and fourth rounds with rights to the head and made three trips to the canvas in the fifth, before Referee Joe Zapustas halted the uneven struggle.

Fred Fields, 166, Chelsea, defeated Chuck Doyle, 163, Fall River in the opening four scoring a nine count knockdown in the third round.

Frankie Waters, 129½, of North End defeated Jackie Pennington, 134, Coast Guard, in another four.

Another Doyle bit the dust when Tommy Doyle, 194, also of Fall River and a brother of Chuck was defeated by Johnny Martin, 172, of Rochester in a six.

Eddie Grace, 201, of the South End, who learned his boxing in the Army, showed a lot of promise in winning the eight-round semi-final from Ralph Ivins, 190½, of New York.

It was a rugged battle all of the way with Grace forcing the issue and scoring the cleaner and harder punches.

VITAMINS

Their relation to poor nutrition and susceptibility to

COLDS SINUSITIS

You may not be getting enough vitamins in the foods you eat. Millions of people don't, according to government and other surveys. Vitamin deficiency means faulty nutrition, and when your nutrition is below normal, you are more likely to get sore throats, head colds or sinus involvement, especially if you have a sensitive nose, throat, bronchial tubes or sinuses. Don't let vitamin shortages cut down your vitality!

Not just 2 or 3, but ALL the vitamins that are known to be necessary to make normal health possible, are now concentrated with essential minerals into two amazing Ritamine Capsules. It's truly a modern miracle that you can get the vitamins and minerals found in vegetables, fruits, fats and other food—all in a little box of Ritamine, so you can safely increase your vitamin intake with Ritamine WITHOUT INCREASING THE FATTENING CALORIES in an otherwise adequate diet. Money back unless Ritamines really help you.

Three sizes—$1.10, $3, $5. Our largest seller is the $5 size, which shows that Ritamine is the "right combination" for thousands of people.

YORK SCORES FIRST FOR SOX

FENWAY PARK, April 23—Johnny Pesky, who was beaned yesterday by Sid Hudson in the Sox-Senator game attended today's game as clipper as ever. Johnny didn't dress for the game.

More misery hit the Sox when George Metkovich reported with a severe cold. Manager Cronin ordered him back to bed. Lee Culberson is playing right field.

FIRST INNING

SENATORS — Robertson was called out on strikes. Lewis was safe at first when Pellagrini dropped his pop fly. Heath walked. Sanford beat out an infield hit. Travis tapped into a doubleplay. Johnson to Wagner to York. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Robertson threw out DiMaggio. Pellagrini grounded out to Sanford. Williams reached first on Sanford's fumble. Doerr flied to Spence. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

SENATORS — Evans walked. Spence out, York to Johnson who covered first. Pellagrini threw out Priddy, Evans going to third. Masterson was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—York doubled. Culberson flied to Priddy. Priddy threw out Andres, Wagner doubled, scoring York. Johnson walked. DiMaggio singled, scoring Wagner. Pellagrini walked, filling the bases. Priddy threw out Williams. TWO RUNS.

Arcaro to Ride Lord Boswell

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—Eddie Arcaro, who hopes to make racing history on May 4 by riding his foudth Kentucky Derby winner, will fly to Lexington tomorrow to ride Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's Lord Boswell in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland Thursday.

From Kentucky he will go to Havre de Grace and will have th mount on Hampden, William du Pont, Jr.'s Derby hopeful, in the Chesapeake Stakes Saturday.

On his flight to Lexington tomorrow, Arcaro will be accompanied by Mrs. Graham and Bobby Permane, another jockey who will ride Colony Boy in the Blue Grass. Arcaro was ill today and did not show up at the Jamaica race track.

In Kentucky trainer James Smith, who handles Mrs. Graham's Maine Chance string, said that if Lord Boswell worked well in the Blue Grass Arcaro probably would ride that colt in the Derby. Knockdown, also owned by Mrs. Graham, is the Derby favorite.

Eskie Clark of Harvard Honored

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—Col. Henry W. "Eskie" Clark today was awarded the Legion of Merit for outstanding achievement in directing the Army's world-wide athletic program during the war.

Clark, now on terminal leave, has been named general manager of the Alaska development board. He was born at Wrangell, Alaska. He is a former assistant director of athletics at Harvard University, his alma mater.

Finns Name Board To Probe Pros

HELSINKI, Finland, April 23 (AP)—The Finnish Amateur Athletic Association has appointed a three-man committee to investigate charges of professionalism against Finnish trackmen and to work out proposals for a revision of the amateur code.

Dr. Urho Kekkonen, chairman of the FAAA, predicted today that amateur sports faced a "gloomy future" if efforts by Nordic countries to liberalize the code are unsuccessful at the Oslo, Norway, meeting this summer.

Owners, Grooms In Deadlock

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—James Graf, acting chairman of the New York division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Ass'n, said today that "anything might happen" when members of that organization meet with the Grooms and Exercise Riders' Ass'n at the Whitman Hotel, Jamaica, N. Y., Monday night.

Although a recent conference here among those concerned was followed by announcement that agreement had been reached on the subject of awards to grooms and exercise boys, Graf said today that there still is widespread doubt as to whether the majority of horsemen will agree to paying the awards which the track discontinued last Monday, when purses were raised $500 so that horsemen could take over the matter of awards to their help. Graf said many owners and trainers believe the added purse money deservedly belongs to them.

Admits Calling Leo Crook

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—John Christian, 23, who admitted he was the loudest of all the leather-lunged Brooklyn Dodger baseball fans, today described in Kings County Court his new celebrated encounter with Leo "Lippy" Durocher, Dodger manager and no whisperer himself.

Leo, a picture of sartorial perfection in a light grey suit, was an attentive listener. Durocher and Joseph Moore, 50-year-old Ebbets Field guard, are charged with second degree assault against Christian.

Christian, a 215-pound war veteran, said Durocher and Moore dragged him under the grandstand at the Dodgers' ball park after he called the manager a "bum and a crook," and Moore slugged him with a blackjack and Durocher hit him on the jaw.

Christian said he had heckled various members of the team, calling several "two-gun cowboy" and "secret weapon."

Christian denied he was injured in a fall against a box near the players' dugout.

"Lippy" Listens to Law

Mort Cooper Starts Season Against Bums

By BILL GRIMES

EBBETTS FIELD, April 23—Hoping to break the Dodgers five-game winning streak, manager Billy Southworth took the blanket off Mort Cooper, his "ace" hurler, here this afternoon.

Since they were beaten in the opening game at Boston by Big John Sain, the Dodgers have knocked off the Braves and Giants in straight sets.

Mort Cooper was to have pitched a week ago but couldn't loosen up warming up.

Southworth took yesterday's defeat to heart. He never criticizes players for "boots" or bad throws but he jumps them for "bones." So he must have been in rare form today during the pre-game meeting.

Coach Johnny Cooney who was stricken with a stomach ailment yesterday and confined to his bed was reported improved this morning but still not well enough dress.

Johnny Hopp returned to his center field post today after missing two games because of an injured leg. Pres. Louis Perini flew here from Boston this noon and watched the game from a box back of the Braves' bench with Col. Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis, who is one of the Tribe's stockholders.

FIRST INNING

BRAVES—Ryan walked. Hopp hit into a double play, Herman to Reese to Stevens. Herman thre out Holmes. NO RUNS.

DODGERS — Whitman out. Roberge to Sanders. Herman walked. Reiser fanned. Walker singled. Stevens flied to Holmes. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

BRAVES—Sanders flied to Whitman. Rowell flied to Eurillo. Reese threw out Masi. NO RUNS.

DODGERS—Furillo flied to Rowell. Anderson singled. Roberge threw out Reese. Head popped to Roberge. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

BRAVES—Reiser threw out Roberge. Weitelmann walked. Cooper bunted, Weitelman forced, Head to Reese. Ryan forced Cooper, Reese to Herman. NO RUNS.

DODGERS—Whitman beat out a bunt. Herman singled. Reiser singled, scoring Whitman. Walker singled, scoring Herman. Stevens fanned. Reiser was picked off second, Cooper to Weitelmann. Furillo flied to Hopp. TWO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

DODGERS—Anderson lined to Rowell who made a rolling catch. Reese called out on strikes. Ryan threw out Head. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING

BRAVES — Rowell safe on Reese's error. Masi sacrificed, Reiser to Stevens. Reiser threw out Roberge. Wietelmann lined to Whitman. NO RUNS.

DODGERS—Whitman out Sanders to Cooper. Herman walked. Reiser singled. Walker flied to Rowell. Stevens doubled, scoring Herman and Reiser. Furillo flied to Holmes. TWO RUNS.
